TV talk shows are a continuing forum for Hollywood actors who play at politics.

There is a pathetic out-of-dateness to the protestations of a Jane Fonda when she lashes out at "the rich people" and rails against "the big corporations."

Especially since she is herself "rich" by all accepted standards.

AND THE MOVIE BUSINESS which she promotes and from which she profits is itself one of the biggest corporations.

And then there's Paul Newman.

Paul Newman, the actor, has been testifying before a congressional committee against the oil industry.

His announced mission is to "break up the big oil companies."

He is writing letters seeking money to further a campaign against what he calls the petroleum industry's "record profits" and "monopolistic powers."

He says, "For too long they have gotten away with paying almost no taxes."

John Lofton Jr. recently reminded Newman that his own hit movie, "The Sting," made more than $100 million in worldwide rentals. The screenwriter says profits from that one movie will make Newman a millionaire.

DOUBTLESS PAUL NEWMAN did it right. If Fonda and Newman really want to bust up the biggies, they can start with themselves.

MCA, which owns Universal Studios, profits jumped the first quarter of this year 45 percent — to $15 million.

And the number of these "giants" in the movie industry — seven — is precisely the same as the number of "giants" in the oil industry.

As to the taxes they pay, Robert Lindsay of the New York Times recently revealed that motion picture tax-shelter deals enable the rich to take tax deductions, not just for the money they invest in a movie but for up to 20 times the amount they invest.

And further, these tax-shelter deals in the movie industry reportedly have been connected with outright frauds — fictitious movie costs, movies imported just for tax purposes, sex-parties as an investor come-on.

THESE PLAY-ACTORS who represent themselves to be crusaders against the evils of the establishment are the establishment!

When these show business Robin Hoods accuse industry of providing tax advantages for rich people which penalize poor people, let us remember that they are themselves willing conspirators in the evil they pretend to deplore.

Hit the middleman

We don't know the answer and presumably law-enforcement officials don't either, but crime — thankfully, still confined mostly to theft, burglary and vandalism — has waded into Williamson County hip-deep.

RESIDENTIAL RIP-OFFS are costly and not only to the victims. Comprehensive home insurance, which strives to compensate the victim, goes up a notch every time a policy-holder is victimized. Soon, if the trend continues, home owner insurance will go the route of medical malpractice insurance. We won't be able to buy it.

Thugs are finding it easier to work in rural areas than in the cities and many are utilizing sophisticated methods to totally clean out homes located in secluded areas.

One effective way to stop the constant theft of radios, CBs, TV sets, jewelry and other expensive saleable items would be to concentrate on firms, mostly pawn shops, who traffic in this sort of merchandise, to make them legally and criminally responsible for the legitimacy of the merchandise they purchase from guys bringing it in. You can't kid us, these dealers know, 90 times out of a 100 at least, when they are dealing in stolen property.

LAW OFFICIALS report that one of the new major distributors of illegal merchandise is the flea market. Most of these flea market people, they are quick to add, are totally honorable artisans, or just small merchants hustling to make a buck. A few, however, have connections with the underworld and are getting their merchandise through the illegal pipeline. It is always the "few" that mess things up for the vast majority, isn't it?

The grandiose scheme of ripping-off homes, cars and business establishments might well simmer down if the thieves had no ready place to profitably unload all the items they steal.

Enough's Enough

Some things we simply cannot understand. Like why county ambulance supervisor James Simonson seemingly cannot get it through his head that an ambulance is going to continue to be stationed in Round Rock.

Time and time again, Simonson brings forward to the county commissioners first one proposal and then another, all designed to reduce in effectiveness or outright eliminate the ambulance station here. Each time, the commissioners have voted to keep a station here.

Now Simonson is back with yet another proposal: that Round Rock and Cedar Park's stations be combined and locate it somewhere between the two cities.

Please, Mr. Simonson, Round Rock is tired of constantly having to fight for its own ambulance. Tired, but not tired out. We will continue to fight for it each time the question is raised.

We still would like to know: how many times must the county commissioners vote on this matter before the county ambulance service understands that their decision to keep a station located in Round Rock is final? — Larry Jackson, in The Round Rock Leader.

Comic art you can bank on

By George Moneyhun

New York Jack Melcher has not forgotten. He is still a Tom Mix fan, and he has the medals to prove it.

With just a little prodding, Mr. Melcher, who lives in Waukegan, Illinois, will talk about his Tim Mix spurs, his Tom Mix belt buckle with a secret compartment, his Tom Mix belt that glows in the dark, or Tom Mix's original wooden six-guns made in the 1930s.

For Robert Lesser of New York City, it is Buck Rogers who makes his eyes light up. Mr. Lesser, a sign painter, boasts he has the world's biggest collection of Buck Rogers memorabilia, including an original Buck Rogers space station, Buck Rogers roller skates with rear lights, and, of course, Buck Rogers bubble-gum cards.

Etienne Robeal is a Paris newspaper illustrator who admits he goes ape over Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck. Mr. Robeal and his wife were in New York City last week poking through shops in hopes of unearthing a new Mickey Mouse toy to add to the 1,000 or so they already have in Paris.

These nostalgia collectors are typical of the growing number of adults — and children — caught up in the still-mushrooming fad of collecting "comic art" from America's past; anything from Little Orphan Annie's secret code ring to an original 1933 Mickey Mouse clock that sells for $1,500 today.

Attic artifacts

Old toys, trinkets, comic books, and TV and radio premiums from the 1930s and '40s — items that until 1968 were routinely tossed out of attics to make room for more junk — are hotly sought after today. They are displayed at collectors' shows, traded, and bought and sold — sometimes at very high prices.

Many pop art collectors feel they are in the vanguard of a cultural revolution that the working class or blue-collar workers can relate to. They are disturbed that art museums refuse to take their "comic art" seriously.

Mr. Lesser, author of a book entitled "Celebration of Comic Art and Memorabilia," complains "the European art establishment" is openly prejudiced against "popular art," as Mr. Lesser calls it, and it pressures art museums in the United States and Europe not to exhibit such items.

Comic art collectors insist there is as much beauty in an early Donald Duck drawing by artist Carl Barks, who drew Walt Disney characters in the 1930s, as there is in a Picasso painting — a view with which many art enthusiasts would disagree.

With some 100,000 comic-book collectors in the U.S. alone, Mr. Lesser argues that "youth is on our side" and that eventually art circles will be forced to recognize comic art as art.

Sophisticated specialization

In the meantime, nostalgia collecting is developing its own sophistication, with collectors specializing in various forms of the "art." Mr. Melcher, for instance, heads the Radio Premium Collectors Society, which prizes advertising premiums offered to youngsters in the 1930s on such programs as Little Orphan Annie, Captain Midnight, Tom Mix, and Jack Armstrong. There are 168 radio premium shows in the U.S. and Canada, says Mr. Melcher.

Other collectors specialize in early television premiums from such programs as Sergeant Preston, Captain Video, Howdy Doody, and Tom Corbett.

Walt Disney toys — early Mickey Mouses in particular — are in high demand. Original Disney characters, those in the 1930s had a different look: Mickey more closely resembled a rodent, and Donald Duck had a longer bill. These are most highly prized by Disney collectors. As with many other companies, Walt Disney Productions has been purchasing original Disney toys to place in museums in Disneyland and Walt Disney World, thereby helping push prices up. A Three Little Pigs alarm clock, for instance, has sold for $680.

Collectors have become adept at spotting fake or counterfeit items, a growing number of which have appeared recently. After all, who would want a fake Buck Rogers solar scout badge, when he could have the real thing?

And some collectors are holding on to contemporary premiums and toys, anticipating that in a few years 1976 "nostalgia" may become valuable.

'Here's hoping I'm not the one to get bashed'

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Don:

I know all of us are delighted with the approval of the loan for the Georgetown Hospital. It has indeed been a long wait, but I think everyone connected with the application, including the FmHA, should be satisfied with the arrangement.

I notice that you had commented that I had "filed a suit" at one time against the FmHA, and if I said that or anything like it, I misspoke. What I have done is ask for a review and/or investigation of one project in Columbus, and we are looking into that question now. It is not a lawsuit, but the purpose is to ascertain why we continue to have interminable delays. Surely we can find quicker ways to do business.

Overall, I have found the FmHA to be one of the most responsive agencies in government that we have. But I think they can get bogged down with too much bureaucracy. Perhaps this is a common failing with anyone in government, my office included, and I think we have to work toward doing a better job. At any rate, I have not filed suit and wanted to correct that indication.

Sure good to visit with you the other day, and hope to see you in Georgetown soon.

Sincerely yours,
J. J. PICKLE

Kissinger's African Diplomacy
Makes Ford Nervous

WASHINGTON — President Ford has issued strong public statements supporting Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. But in the privacy of his oval office, the President is nervous about Kissinger's African adventures.

Ford's advisers are convinced that the President lost the Texas primary last spring because Kissinger was too outspoken against the white Rhodesian regime. Now they are worried that Kissinger will get the President in trouble again with his African diplomacy.

One of Kissinger's objectives is to bring the blacks to power in Rhodesia by peaceful means. He is also bringing pressure on South Africa to grant independence to its Southwest African territory. This would become the new nation of Namibia, under black rule.

This support of black aims in Africa has upset vocal conservatives, who are threatening to abandon President Ford in November. So the President has been watching Kissinger's operations in Africa with increasing wariness.

TAX HAVENS: Thousands of rich Americans hide their income in secret foreign bank accounts. They use the bank secrecy laws of foreign governments to cheat the Treasury out of taxes. The taxes they escape paying, of course, must be made up by the rest of us.

These foreign countries are known as "tax havens." They are located around the globe in such places as Switzerland, Hong Kong, Gibraltar and the Caribbean Islands.

Criminals use these tax havens to deposit millions in illicit, untaxed profits. Giant multinational corporations also hide huge sums in secret foreign accounts.

The bank secrecy laws in these countries protect the tax-evading depositors. Of course, this attracts the shady money. It's good business for the banks and good economics for the governments.

But it's bad economics for the United States. Yet believe it or not, the Internal Revenue Service is helping to protect the tax evaders with foreign bank accounts. The income tax forms used to ask the taxpayers whether they kept any foreign bank accounts. If they lied about it, they risked going to prison.

But the Internal Revenue Service mysteriously eliminated the question from the tax returns last year. This key question could trip up the big-money tax evaders.

Now, however, Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, has introduced legislation that will force Internal Revenue to put the question back in the tax forms.

POISON PROFITS: The Environmental Protection Agency is supposed to keep poisons out of the air we breathe and the water we drink. Yet the agency has refused to accept evidence that two of the most widely used pesticides can cause cancer.

Under federal law, the EPA must set standards on pesticides. Preliminary testing at the National Cancer Institute indicates that Endrin and Toxaphene cause cancer in rats and mice.

Yet environmental czar Russell Train refused to accept the evidence. He even ignored his own agency's study, which showed that Endrin caused cancerous tumors in rats and produced birth defects in hamsters.

The agency has proposed standards that at least would decrease the amount of Endrin and Toxaphene released into the environment. But the agency has refused to police production. Waste from the factories that produce the pesticides, meanwhile, enters our rivers.

Why won't the EPA crack down? It would reduce the profits of the chemical companies, which manufacture 122 million pounds of the two dangerous pesticides every year.

FEDERAL NAG: The U.S. Export-Import Bank is subsidizing a race horse. It's name is "Boydon Hanover." The New York owners have sold the horse to a stud farm in Christchurch, New Zealand, for $135,000.

The Export-Import Bank is bankrolling half of the mortgage on the horse. This comes to $57,375. The other half is financed by an Australian bank.

A spokesman for the government-supported Export-Import Bank told my office that the bank usually handles cattle transactions.

But occasionally, he acknowledged, the bank will finance breeding stock sales. It has a heavy interest, he admitted, in a horse named "Boydon Hanover."

ILLEGAL LOTTERY: The Navy's Public Works department has been operating an illegal lottery for three years. The lottery has been conducted during government time, on government property. Yet the profits went into the pockets of the Navy officials who ran it.

The Navy was unaware of the lottery's existence until we alerted them. The lottery has now been closed, and Admiral Ralph Carmahan has ordered an investigation. A Navy spokesman confirmed that the lottery was a clear violation of federal regulations.

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

By Bill Kidd

AUSTIN — Time was when an angry Democrat or Republican could go home from his party's nominating convention and, if he didn't like the way things came out, start himself a new political party.

But new laws in Texas have made it so you have to start out mad early in an election year to form a third or fourth or fifth party.

So, with the Republican and Democratic state conventions out of the way, the two sure-enough political parties can get along with the business of electing Gerald Ford or Jimmy Carter as president.

Both Texas parties had pretty good scrimmages between their first and second teams to get ready for the big game on Nov. 2. There was a lot of talking and carrying on the fights over the party chairmanships, but when they were over, both parties seemed fairly intact.

"This is just for practice" or "we're just making more Democrats" are the ways the intraparty fights are explained. It was not so long ago that things were different. In 1948, for example, Democrat Harry Truman had to win despite party bolts in both directions. Strom Thurmond, now a Republican senator from North Carolina, headed the States Rights Party ticket. Former Vice President Henry Wallace headed the Progressive Party ticket. Both were on the ballot in Texas, as was Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican nominee. Despite the three opponents, Truman won.

But Carter won't have that problem this year. Only Eugene McCarthy has tried to start a new leftist Democratic group this year, and he was too late, the courts said.

The November 2 ballot and voting machines will have five parties listed. They are the Democratic, Republican, Raza Unida, Socialist Workers and American Parties. Raza Unida has no presidential candidate. The American Party ticket is Thomas J. Anderson and Rufus Shackelford. The Socialist Workers' candidates are Peter Canejo and Willie Mae Reid.

Both those parties had candidates on the 1972 ballot, and between them got less than 15,000 votes. So they do not begin to pose the threat to the two major candidates that Gov. George Wallace did in 1968. His 584,269 votes that year in Texas overshadowed the 38,960 votes by which Hubert Humphrey beat Richard Nixon in Texas, and his national total has often been described as the reason Nixon beat Humphrey.

This year, the loser will not have that excuse.

Actually, the intra-party battles which sent ramp delegations to the Republican and Democratic conventions in 1952 have seemingly been removed from the political scene. New rules in both parties have made it possible for the losing side to have some representation. That has soothed the political rages which heated Texas convention politics in the 1940s, 1950s and 1960s, like a cooling flow of water into a churning radiator.

So the parties have been forced to find other ways to drive people out of their parties. National polls show continual declines in the percentage and numbers of people who call themselves "Democrat" or "Republican."

But the polls show something else. In addition to the growth in percentages of voters who call themselves "independents," the nation is seeing a growth in the number of people who do not vote.

The Watergate scandal is but one of those scandals, at federal, state and local levels, which have cost public officials the respect of many voters and turned them into non-voters.

Of course, that is nothing new in Texas, this business of non-voting. Between the poll tax, registration every year in January, and other man-made impediments, no governor of Texas has ever been elected by voter registration every year in January, and other man-made impediments, no governor of Texas has ever been elected by a majority of the voters of voting age. And only once, in 1896 before the poll tax was put on, did a majority of the Texans of voting age take part in the election of a governor.

So, if the rest of the nation's people are going to quit voting, it will raise the Texas percentage of the national vote, but not in the Electoral College where the president is picked. That's based on the membership of Congress, not on votes.

Thanks to you
it works...

CORRECTION

The SUN incorrectly reported in its September 16 issue that the Jarrell Independent School District's amended 1975-76 budget showed its interest and sinking fund carried a $444.80 deficit.

The fund in fact ended up with a $444.88 surplus, not a deficit.

The SUN regrets the error.

Georgetown, Texas
Sunday, September 19, 1976

Members of St. Helen's Catholic Church are making plans for the biggest Fall Festival ever.

The Rev. Al Palermo, pastor of St. Helen's, emphasizes that the public is cordially invited to participate in the day-long activities at the San Gabriel Community Center on Sunday, September 26.

A barbecue beef dinner will be served from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m., with tickets available at the door.

There will be games and activities of interest for all age groups throughout the afternoon. For the children there will be a goat cart ride, fish pond and many other game booths.

A plant booth will feature a variety of plants at low prices. The handiwork booth will contain many handmade bazaar items such as embroidered pillow cases, crocheted items, aprons and some paintings.

Of particular interest in the afternoon will be an auction. A few of the many items to be auctioned include an old trunk and other antiques, barbecue grill, aluminum screen door, smoker-cooker, and many handmade items including a quilt, lamps, macrame plant hangers and a painting by local artist, Joan Rothhammer.

The ladies of St. Helen's will be serving coffee, cold drinks and pastries, cakes and kolaches during the afternoon. Hamburgers, sausage and sandwiches will be served from 5 p.m. until midnight.

The day's activities will be topped off with a dance from 8 p.m. until midnight with live entertainment by "The Moods."

St. Helen's Church had its beginning in 1931 as a Catholic mission. The church has experienced a steady growth over the years, with its most rapid growth being within the past three years. With 360 families comprising its membership of approximately 1,400, St. Helen's is quickly becoming one of the largest churches in Georgetown.

IT'S ALL FINISHED FATHER — Jeannette Nemecek and son Greg show Father Palermo the hand-made quilt that will be auctioned off at the St. Helen's Fall Festival on Sunday, September 26, at San Gabriel Community Center. Some other items of interest which will also be auctioned are an antique trunk, milk can, barbecue grill, picnic table and benches plus many other items. Mrs. Nemecek pieced the quilt top and helped Elizabeth Williams and Tillie Kohoutek quilt it.

Jeff Vise takes a handoff from Round Rock quarterback Kenny Cogdell in action against Leander Sept. 10. Round Rock won the game, its first victory of the year, 22-13 over Leander.

Gym glows after Dragon win

At the University of Texas, football victories are celebrated by lighting the tower orange. At Round Rock, football victories are celebrated by lighting the front of the field house red.

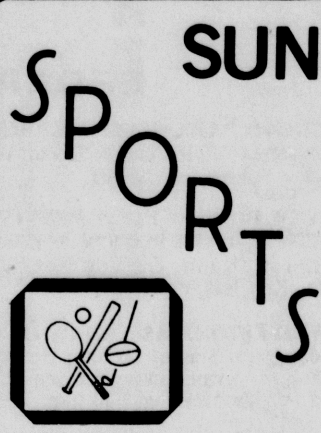

The Dragons' 22-13 win over Leander was followed by the debut of the lights, which Round Rock coach Bill Bryant said "are a present for these guys."

"They are for when we finally won a big 'un," he said.

After the game players and cheerleaders streamed through the locker room, going to the front of the gym-field house to see the inaugural lighting.

Doug Asher intercepts a Kenny Cogdell pass in third quarter action.

SU women's volleyball opens with two wins

Southwestern University's volleyball team opened the season with wins over Mary Hardin-Baylor and Ambassador College in Belton Tuesday night.

The Southwestern women won the first game 10-4 as both teams showed first game nervousness. Then a much improved Mary Hardin-Baylor team bounced back to take the second game 13-15.

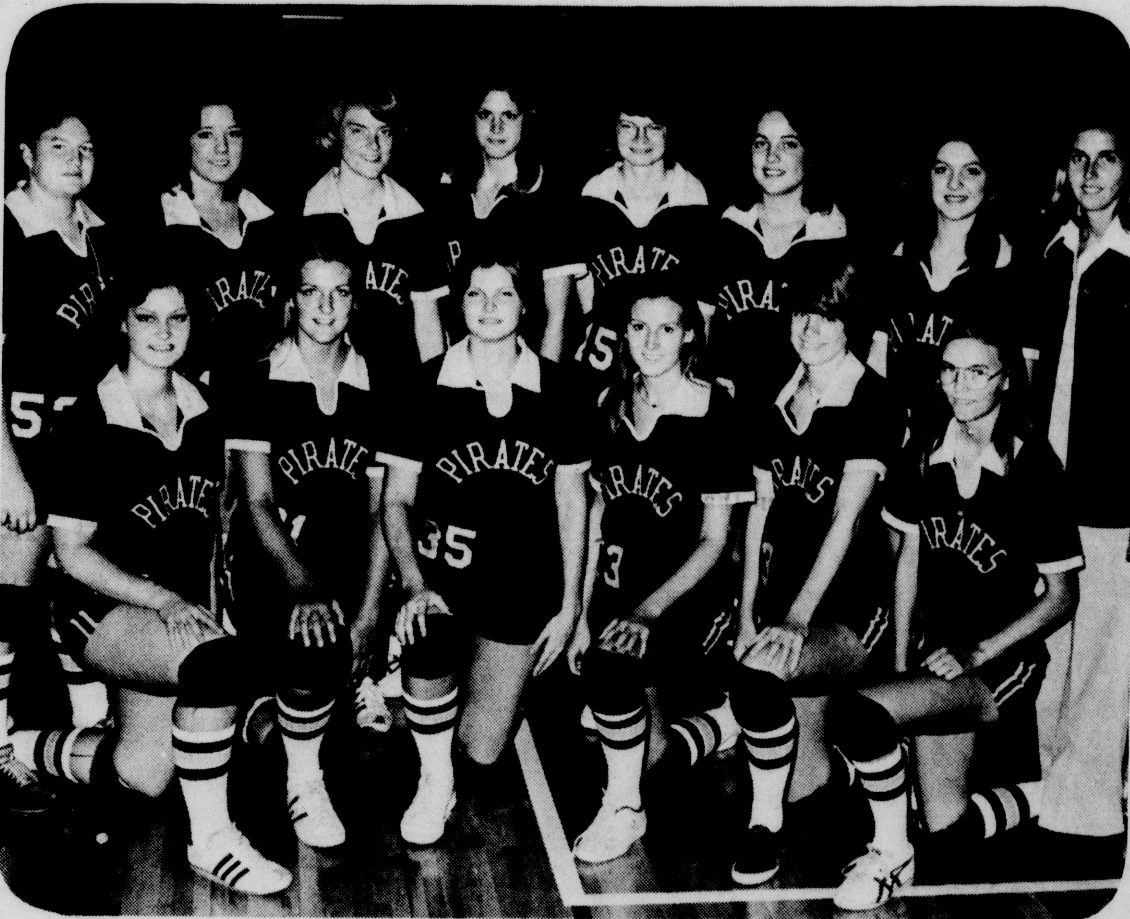

Southwestern controlled the third and deciding game all the way, however, with Tracy Strane serving 10 straight points while Melissa Hardberger was having a good night at the net with her spikes to lead the Pirates to a 15-4 win.

Against Ambassador College the Southwestern girls jumped off to an early lead and Coach Glada Munt emptied the bench as her charges won 15-1 and 15-10. Risa Marshall and Jan Loudan both looked sharp for Southwestern in the second match with their spiking and defensive work.

Southwestern is in its third year of playing in the Texas Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, and Coach Munt shows optimism for an improved season.

"We're two months ahead of where we were at this time last year," she says.

Captains this year are Miss Hardberger, a Lamesa sophomore, and Janice SOUTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY'S volleyball team, which opened its intercollegiate season this week. Back row, Jan Doughty, Risa Marshall, Carol Sheffield, Sharon Eoff, Faye Terry, Melissa Hardberger, Kim Schoenbacher and Coach Glada Munt.

Doughty, a junior from Corpus Christi.

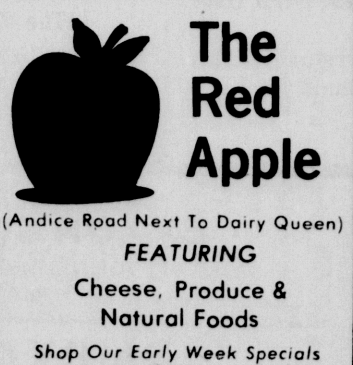

CO-CAPTAINS for the Southwestern University volleyball team this year are Janice Doughty and Melissa Hardberger.

UNUSUAL SCORE. Not often does a football scoreboard show a final score such as this one did following the Georgetown-Llano game last Friday night.

The Church Building

This is only a building, but it is a special building for it is the worship place for God's people. It is a place where one may go to study and hear God's word preached.

"...faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God."

If there are unanswered questions in your mind... go... seek... and find God in his house

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

TODD SUSMAN, as aviator Stan Lewis, sprains his ankle and finds himself stranded, when the plane he's flying crash lands in the wilderness of central California on Spencer's Pilots, airing September 24 (8-9 p.m., ET) over CBS.

New production starts at Country Dinner Playhouse

"How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," one of Broadway's longest running and most glittering successes, will be on the stage of Austin's Country Dinner Playhouse from September 14 until October 17. This musical extravaganza is under the direction of well-known New York director, Buff Shurr, who recently staged the popular "Fiddler on the Roof" and "1776."

"How to Succeed" is a hilarious spoof of the classic business stereotypes. Mark Rodgers stars as Finch, a man skilled at the double cross, whose heart beats in two-time, whose instinct is for the jugular, and who is particularly charming when he sings to the mirror, "I Believe in You." The business arena is teeming with interesting characters: a marriage-minded secretary who is smitten by Finch; a typical bigwig company president; and the president's hilariously out-to-lunch nephew, Frump. Some of the musical highlights of the show include "The Company Way," "Happy to Keep His Dinner Warm," and "Brotherhood of Man."

The Country Dinner Playhouse is happy to announce the addition of Head Chef, John O'Reilly, to its staff. A delicious buffet dinner will prelude the fabulous Heymaker show. Then, sit back, relax, and enjoy "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

To make reservations or ask about special group rates, call (512) 836-5921. On Friday and Saturday nights there will be dancing following the show and all drinks will be discounted 25 cents off their original prices. Plan to stay around and make a night of it.

WHO PLAYED

WHO IS HE ?

ANSWER:
CLIFF ROBERTSON.

TV Dial-ogue

HI HO, STEVERINO -- Where can I write to Steve Allen? I love his old talk show. -- Karen Dandel, Chicago, Ill.
The best place to write Steve would be his Van Nuys office. The address is 15201 Burbank Blvd., Suite B, Van Nuys, Calif. 91411.

AGELESS -- How is it that Michael Landon is only 14 years older than his eldest son? -- Andy Pritchett, Lowell, Mass.
Wish the answer were more exotic, but Michael is the stepfather of his eldest son, which explains it all.

NEWLEYWEDS -- How long have The Captain and Tennille been married, and how did he get that name? -- Marcie LeRoux, Carbon-dale, Calif.
Daryl Dragon and Toni Tennille were married on Valentine's Day, 1975, just before their smash single "Love Will Keep Us Together" broke nationally. The Beach Boys' Mike Love supposedly gave Daryl his nickname, when Daryl was a musician and arranger with the band. It derived from the naval captain's hat he wears onstage.

HENRY'S HEIGHT -- Where was Henry Winkler born, and how tall is he? He seems pretty short. -- Andrea Brodtkin, Detroit, Mich.
Henry was born in New York City. His bio has him listed as 5' 6 1/2". I suppose every half inch counts.

STRAIGHT A -- I've fallen in love with Melissa Sue Anderson on Little House on the Prairie. Could you tell me something about her, especially her age? -- Mark Addison, Muncie, Ind.
Melissa, who will be 14 on September 26, is very much like the character she plays. She's a quiet, somewhat shy girl who loves to read and gets straight A grades in school. One thing she says she can hardly wait for is to be old enough to take flying lessons. She was born in Berkeley and now lives with her parents in Burbank.

GOT THEIR MAN -- There was a TV show on in the '60s, starring Chuck Connors and Ben Gazzara. What was the name of the series? -- Allen Holden, Palo Alto, Calif.
It was Arrest and Trial, a novel idea in programming at the time. Gazzara played a cop, and in the first half of the 90-minute series he would catch the alleged bad guy. Connors, the D.A., would then prosecute in the second half of the show. It aired in 1963.

Strange saga of 'Tokyo' Roz Kelly

As every Happy Days aficionado knows by now, Fonzie falls in love this week to one Pinky Tuscadero, the best looking hotrodder to ever roar through town. The big event takes place Tuesday, Sept. 21 (8-9 p.m., ET) in a special one-hour premiere.

Pinky is played on the show by an aspiring superstar named Roz Kelly. Who, you might very well ask, is Roz Kelly? Well, in response to such a question, Ms. Kelly herself submitted a bio, reprinted below. Referring to herself in the third person at all times, Roz details her life's experience with refreshing humor and pizzazz. If Pinky Tuscadero is anything like Roz Kelly, she'll be more than a match for the Forz.

Well, here it is, entitled "Success Without College or The Roz Kelly Story."

Roz Kelly was born and raised in New York City and is looking forward to growing up in Hollywood.

She made her stage debut at age five, understanding very early that there was no place for her in real life. Singing and dancing her way through childhood, she commenced slinging hash in her late teens and has a list of restaurant and coffee shop credits as long as that of her independently unreleased movies. They alone would constitute a retroactive career. Her school -- NYS (New York Streets) -- has much to do with her style of acting. . . "Early Irish". . . Cagney, O'Hara and Tracy.

In November of '74, she headed for the land of automotive distress enthusiastically bubbling, "Hey, I'm from New York, where's da work?" No one told her. Then one day she met (agent) James McHugh over lunch. She was serving it. A fluffy white mound of cottage cheese and coffee. . . basic black. He was perusing a script. Still on jet lag and having left her manners in New York, she subtly inquired if he was a director, and with the same finesse whipped out her portfolio which just happened to be under the counter. History was in the making.

Mr. McHugh, together with Hilda Herzbrun, scanned her lengthy resume recognizing many of the names. Hers was not one of them. This did not deter them. Assignment Redhead was launched. . . Roz Kelly was given her break.

She was featured as Barbra Streisand's roommate in "The Owl and the Pussycat," and also appeared in the films, "Greetings," "Sweet Dreams" and "The Female Response." She has also had roles in various theatrical productions, including "Rain."

She appeared in a Starsky & Hutch episode during the past season and reappears in the series' two-hour premiere on September 25.

Miss Kelly is also an excellent photographer and has been frequently published in New York Magazine, Harper's, Arts, Mademoiselle, Gentlemen's Quarterly, Art Direction, Rolling Stone, Modern Photography and more recently, New West.

Technically everything the girl does is a mistake, but luckily she is a genius. She is planning to attend UCLA this fall and is considering English as a second language. Her close friends call her Tokyo Roz, Wolf-Girl, or not at all.

Her favorite color is pink.

One of the toughest troopers in Hollywood is a 68 pound pig-tailed 12 year old.

Melissa Gilbert, who stars as Laura Ingalls in NBC's Little House on the Prairie, is a firm believer in that old show biz axiom "the show must go on," no matter what. Last year she was carted in and out of a number of shots after having dislocated her knee in a bicycle crack-up.

A month ago she underwent a double hernia operation. She did a full day of shooting before entering the hospital and was back at work two days later. By the end of the week she was playing in the lunch-break baseball games.

Monday

Networkings

The Electric Company will have a new look when it begins its sixth season on PBS October 18. To help readers focus more clearly on the goals included in each program, two characters will join the show's repertory company. Steve Awesome, the $6.39 Man and a new animated character named Clayton will come to the rescue of 7-10 year olds who have trouble reading.

Since last season, the producers have been making subtle format changes in an effort to increase the educational impact of the curriculum of each program. This season they will introduce "curriculum clusters" -- grouping of segments that deal with the same reading skill. There will also be only three goals in each show, a number that producers feel is more manageable than the four to six that were included in earlier seasons.

With all this serious talk, though, the kids shouldn't worry that the show will cease to be fun. A reliable source has it that it's as zany as ever.

This will be the last production season for The Electric Company. The 130 programs, along with those from the 1975-76 season, will be repeated alternately until 1980. These 260 shows include all the most successful techniques the producers and researchers devised in their task of teaching basic reading skills.

"The Lunatic Express," a television drama by Peter Viertel recounting the story to build the first railroad through the woodlands, swamps and deserts of East Africa, has been commissioned by NBC. Survival Anglia, which has a development agreement with the network, will film the African epic.

Viertel has previously written screenplays for such movies as "The Sun Also Rises" and "The African Queen" and is the author of two novels, "White Hunter, Black Heart" and "Bicycle on the Beach."

The film will be shot in East Africa, using many of the historical locations involved in the construction of the original railroad. Dubbed "the lunatic express" by critics who claimed "where it is going nobody knows," the railroad managed to span 600 miles of unmapped territory from Mombassa to Lake Victoria. It was completed in 1901 after 5 years of work.

'TV Quotes'

Jose Molina: "I used to translate things people said to me literally. Someone once gave me a check and I left it in my room. When I needed the money, I asked the desk clerk to change the check for me. 'How big is it?' he asked. I tried to describe the actual size. He should have said 'What is the amount?' I thought he meant actual measurements."

Phil Harris: "Lawrence Welk once asked me if I liked his accordion playing. I told him if you put some grapes in it, something good would come out of it."

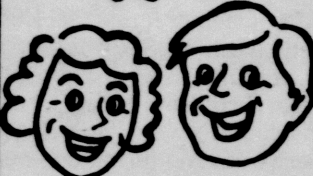

Harris: "I've known Bing Crosby for 50 years. It's an experience I will always cherish. He would be a credit to us all as an ambassador."

Glen Campbell: "Sometimes I feel I'm chasin' the south end of a northbound mule."

Mel Brooks: "When I first got started I worked at hotels in upstate New York. I worked the pools. I came out in a derby, a long black coat -- it was 100 degrees -- and a cardboard suitcase full of rocks."

Brooks: "Sometimes you don't make money on a successful film. I did 'The Producers' for $35,000 and spent over four years on it."

Gov. Briscoe wants colleges to be more responsive to today's needs

For over a year now I have spoken out about the increasing cost of higher education in Texas. I have addressed again and again the question of producing more graduates in some fields than there are jobs available. I have done this in the hope that our leaders in education will do something about it.

I have also done it to help our young people to know that they should think twice about their college plans. They need to know that a college education doesn't guarantee a job. They need to know that they had better be careful what field of study they enter. They need to know that vocational and technical training is an honorable goal and also may give them a better opportunity to good jobs than some university degrees.

I HAVE TALKED about this problem for over a year. Now it is time we begin to do something more than talk. I do not believe in a rigid government plan that controls all of the educational programs offered. I do not believe in an inflexible government plan that restricts choices made by the students. I do believe that using the marketplace is always a better way to match up supply and demand. Government plans never have been as effective as the marketplace.

But we have to do something. I do not propose merely to go on talking about these problems. Therefore, I have met on this subject with Harry Provencher, Chairman of the Coordinating Board, Kenneth Ashworth, Commissioner of Higher Education, and Marlin Brockette, Texas Commissioner of Education. I have taken five steps to begin to deal with these problems that I have discussed for so long.

First, I have requested the Coordinating Board to issue every spring a series of press releases describing employment opportunities in our State. These releases will particularly describe the situation in those fields where we are over-producing graduates and fields that offer good employment opportunities. This information will help students to stay out of those fields where we are producing too many graduates. This information will help our young people to make decisions about their educational plans after high school that can lead to good jobs. And when students stop enrolling in certain fields, then appropriate adjustments will follow inside our colleges and universities. Adjustments will be made in terms of both funding and staffing.

Second, I have requested the Coordinating Board and the Texas Education Agency to be sure that this information on employment is put in the hands of every high school counselor in Texas and is shared with local school boards, Parent Teachers Association, and school administrators. I also want it placed in the hands of every career counselor in our colleges and universities. Then these people can guide our young people out of the fields where we are producing too many graduates and into fields where they can find productive and rewarding jobs.

Third, I have asked the Texas Education Agency and the Coordinating Board to evaluate the standards for the preparation of teachers and other professional school personnel. I have asked these agencies to do this in order to insure an adequate and balanced supply of personnel for our State school system.

Fourth, I have directed the Coordinating Board to exercise its powers to prevent the creation of additional colleges and universities and to restrict the approval of additional degree programs in such fields as teaching, law, and journalism and other fields of oversupply. I have further directed that board to restrict approval of additional Ph.D. and doctoral programs. Everyone knows that this country is over-producing college teachers now and there are thousands more in the pipelines in the schools still waiting to graduate. Just to give one example, one of our universities in Texas advertised for six new positions in English and received over 1600 applications. As I have said before, this is a waste of human resources as well as the taxpayers' funds. In addition, I have directed the Coordinating Board to eliminate and withdraw degree programs where they cannot be justified at taxpayers' expense.

Fifth, I have asked the Coordinating Board to make special efforts to see that the resources of our fine private colleges and universities are taken into account when new public degree programs are proposed. We must protect this part of our educational system which provides education for over 75,000 students in Texas.

I FEEL CONFIDENT we can expect the full cooperation of our private industry and businesses in helping us to make the employment marketplace work better. I am sure business leaders in Texas will help to see that reliable information on job opportunities flow to our colleges and universities. I expect every educational leader in this state to reexamine their programs. I want them to find out whether they are serving the people who want to find jobs and the people who will hire them. I want to make our marketplace for jobs and graduates work.

We have built a higher education system in Texas to be proud of. It has quality and it is available within 50 miles of 98.5 percent of all of our people. We now need to be certain that it is serving all the people and not just fulfilling the ambitions and egos of faculty members, board members, and administrators.

PUBLIC NOTICE

SUMMARY OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 2, 1976

NUMBER ONE ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 49)

Repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution, S.J.R. 49 amends Section 49-c of Article III of the Texas Constitution to provide for and authorize an additional $400 million in Texas water development bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the members of each house of the Legislature for such water development purposes as the Legislature may prescribe.

The amendment contains a specific prohibition against the use of state funds for the development of water resources from the Mississippi River and also requires that before any single water development project may be undertaken requiring the expenditure of more than $35 million in bond proceeds, it must be approved by resolution of the Legislature.

The amendment removes the constitutional requirement that certain revenues must be used to retire water development and water quality enhancement bonds and removes the constitutional interest rate limit on such bonds.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing an increase of $400 million in the amount of Texas Water Development Bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the legislature; amending and consolidating provisions of Sections 49-c, 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution; and repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution."

NUMBER TWO ON THE BALLOT (H.J.R. 99)

H.J.R. 99 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to increase from $100 million to $200 million the aggregate principle amount of Texas water development bonds which may be issued and outstanding by the Texas Water Development Board to provide grants and loans for water quality enhancement purposes as established by the Legislature.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"A constitutional amendment to increase from $100 million to $200 million the amount of Texas Water Development Bonds that may be issued for water quality enhancement purposes."

Schorr case pits free press vs. Congress

By Peter C. Stuart
Staff correspondent of
The Christian Science Monitor

Washington

Daniel Schorr's gruff "no" to the House Ethics Committee has put into motion a struggle which some observers say involves more than just one television newsmen and 12 congressmen.

What has kept alive this controversy over who "leaked" a secret congressional report on the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) published seven months ago is a conviction among the contestants that the well-being of two national institutions — Congress and the press — is at stake.

For a Congress beset by ethical embarrassments — four of its members convicted of offenses, one indicted, one reprimanded, and several charged with sexual improprieties — the Schorr case offers a chance to restore what Ethics Committee Chairman John J. Flynt (D) of Georgia calls "the integrity of the legislative process."

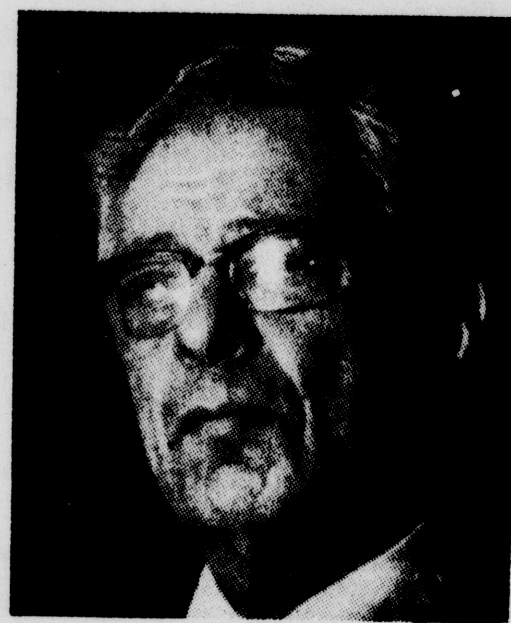

For the press, the confrontation is an inquiry into journalistic rights which Mr. Schorr claimed in his testimony Wednesday (Sept. 15) "can only be damaging to a free press."

Mounting legal pressure

He, and three other journalists testifying with him, took their stand against a background of mounting legal pressures on the nation's news media — "gag orders" curbing coverage of criminal trials increasing in the past decade from just two a year to more than 20 a year, 42 subpoenas to newsmen approved by the attorney general in a recent two-year period, and at least 10 newsmen jailed in the past three years for refusing to reveal news sources.

Thus the Schorr case could become a showdown issue for much of the press and many lawmakers.

Mr. Schorr, the CRS television correspondent who concedes supplying a copy of the House Intelligence Committee's secret final report on CIA abuses to the New York weekly newspaper, the Village Voice, which published much of it in February, declined to tell the Ethics Committee where he got his copy.

Schorr — battle lines drawn?

Betraying a source

"For a journalist," he said, "the most crucial kind of confidence is the identity of a source of information. To betray a confidential source would mean to dry up many future sources for many future reporters. The reporter and the news organization would be the immediate losers. The ultimate losers would be the American people and their free institutions."

Added Aaron Latham, subpoenaed for having written the introduction to the Village Voice account: "We thought we were doing the country a service, just as the Congress had done the country a service by compiling the report." (The now-defunct Intelligence Committee had voted to release its report, but the full House of Representatives voted to keep it secret.)

The ethics panel, which granted the probe the distinction of being the first full-scale investigation in its eight-year history, devoted to it $150,000, five months of work by 13 former FBI agents, and 285 interviews. Results: the "leader" remains undiscovered.

ROTARY BEATER ROPE — You've got to be kidding, seems to be what Joanne Rosser (right) is thinking as Trudy Wilson uses an electric hand mixer to twist yarn into rope, the first stage in making a macrame plant holder.

FINISHED PRODUCT — Inspecting the finished pot hanger are Trudy Wilson and Nancy Carlson. If you want to learn how to make these and many other items, go to the craft meetings. If you want to buy one, go to the PTA Carnival.

PUNCHING OUT EYES — Yes, that is what Joyce Andrews and Darlene Parker are doing, punching "eyes" out of felt, for different crafts that are being made for the PTA Carnival.

WINDING YARN — Other activities taking place at the Monday morning craft meetings in the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church include winding yarn and winding more yarn for assorted crafts pompons. Here Betty Kuehn, Wanda McDonald, Darlene Campbell and Rosie Bell try their hand at winding plastic discs with yarn.

NOW ISN'T THAT NEAT — Joanne Rosser and Kathy McCoy, PTA Carnival chairman, admire the rope, which was twisted from a skein of yarn.

HOMEROOM MOTHERS AND BROTHERS AND SISTERS — Primary, Westside Intermediate and Northside Middle School mothers met at the Georgetown High School Little Theater Friday morning to discuss the seated open house planned for the three schools Tuesday, September 21. The homeroom mothers will collect membership dues at the open house from those wishing to sign up for the parent teacher organization.

The Georgetown Parent Teacher Association wants you!

Parents interested in joining the student-oriented organization are invited to join up during the special membership drive being held September 21 through 24.

An opportunity to enable the parent and teacher to better understand their roles in the education of the youth will be provided early in the school year with a seated open house at Primary, Westside Intermediate and Northside Middle School Tuesday night.

Times will be 6 to 7 p.m. at Primary; 7 to 8 p.m. at Westside; and 8 to 9 p.m. at Northside.

Personal communication and cooperation between the parent and teacher benefits the children. Each teacher will speak directly to the parents and children explaining educational programs and processes for the year. This exchange of information will give the teachers an opportunity to get acquainted.

Afterwards there will be time for visiting with other parents and children in your child's classroom.

Membership tables will be operating at each PTA meeting to give everyone an opportunity to become actively involved in PTA. Homeroom mothers will be collecting dues from those signing up Tuesday night.

The PTA offers parent involvement programs in the following areas:

- Homeroom mothers (or dads) — duties will be to coordinate school parties at Christmas, Valentine and end-of-school

- Preparation of materials — donate one day a week from 8:45 to 11 a.m. to work with materials to be prepared for students' and teachers' use. A brief training program will be provided for all workers.

- Craft projects — crafts will be made by the students in the classroom every Wednesday in September and October. These crafts will be sold at the carnival in October.

- Substitute teachers — This requires the proper credentials. The service will allow teachers to attend workshops and visit other schools.

- Special projects — teachers often need an extra hand with special art project or study group. Notice will be given in advance for this special classroom activity.

- Hey Dads — Would you like to volunteer your time on special activity days? Fathers are parents too and are encouraged to become involved in schooltime activities.

The National PTA is an educational organization that unites the forces of home, school and community in behalf of children and youth.

The most important unit of the National PTA, the local association, carries out its program through the work of committees, a democratic practice that enables many persons to share responsibilities. Members are privileged to decide what actions shall be taken on committee reports.

"PTA can be a vital force in the community. PTA can bring educators and the public together. They can focus attention on their members and the public on the schools and explain the importance of schools for the development of the individual, the improvement of the general welfare, and the strengthening of our democracy," Karen McAden, PTA president, said.

"The PTA can provide opportunities for teachers and school officials to interpret educational objectives and methods to the public and to describe school needs and problems. Our youth need your interest in PTA."

Poetry afoot: Georgetown takes up Scots Country Dance

By NEL PERSKY

Ballroom dancing? In 1976? Right on!

One of the more ancient but currently popular pastimes is Scottish Country Dancing, a pleasure moving westward to Georgetown from Buffalo, New York, via native Brits Janet and Douglas Cashmore.

With their two children, Linda and David, the Cashmores moved to Georgetown only seven weeks ago, but are already anxious to begin their dancing.

Fall begins the dancing season on Janet's calendar since, she explains, her dancing group in Buffalo always halted its meetings as summer's rush approached, but regularly began again in mid-September.

Men do look very good in a kilt; I've never seen one who didn't.

Janet, who has been an enthusiast of the formal Scottish dance since she attended high school in Lincolnshire, England, began searching for a dancing club in Texas even before she moved to Georgetown with her husband, a Westinghouse employee.

Although she found another family from Lincolnshire "right here in Georgetown" — the Harry Normans, another Westinghouse family — the nearest Royal Scottish Country Dance Society group is located in Houston.

"I DECIDED if I wanted to dance I'd have to form my own club," she said in a bright British voice. Houston is a little far to travel for a weekly night of dancing.

Certified by the Society three years ago to teach the dances, she explained, "I want everyone everywhere to be able to enjoy the dance."

Of the dance itself, she said, "It's not really 'country.' That's from the French 'contree,' which means 'against.' It's 'against' because you dance in two long lines facing each other; it's ballroom dancing rather than folk dancing.

"This is very social dancing done in sets of eight people so that it's not a case of going and dancing with a partner all night. You dance with everybody.

"It's a mixture of the ancient highland dancing, which I think everyone has seen somewhere, and the French ballet.

"When Mary Stewart returned from France a lot of Frenchmen went back with her and they kind of mixed the dancing they found there with ballet and formed Scottish Country Dancing.

"Some of the dances we do are very, very old; they were being danced in the court of Queen Elizabeth I. But there are new dances being written and made up all the time.

"THE IDEA of the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society was to set standards so that the dances were taught the same way everywhere people are dancing. This means that you can go anywhere in the world and if you find a Scottish Dance club you can join in."

Queen Elizabeth II is patron of the society which was founded 53 years ago to collect and preserve the fast-disappearing dances. Taught verbally and by example, the ancient forms were changing rapidly without the standardization imposed by the Dance Society.

"There are clubs all over the place — New Zealand, Australia, of course in the British places

DANCE WITH US, invite two of Georgetown's newest residents, Janet and Douglas Cashmore. Starting September 30, Janet will be setting aside Thursdays between 7:30 and 9:45 p.m. to organize a social evening of Scottish country dancing at Stonehaven Center. Not to worry if you don't have the full regalia of tartan kilt and full-length dancing dress. Certified by the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society to teach the ball room dancing, the native Britishwoman will start making friends in her new hometown by teaching the dance, hoping the new dancers will share her enthusiasm and continue their meetings as a social occasion. Long dresses and kilts just get in the way for beginners, she explained in a noticeably British voice, but apparently couldn't resist adding, "Although of course, men do look very good in a kilt; I have never seen one who didn't."

— and I danced in Switzerland.

Some of the dances we do are very, very old. They were being danced in the court of Queen Elizabeth I.

"The number of Societies is growing. There are a number on the West Coast; they are just beginning in Alabama and in Washington, D.C. in the north. In the northeast there are quite a few. There's not much in the middle of the country, or in Texas, but it's spreading. As people move they take it with them."

The Cashmores happily remember gay Scottish balls they enjoyed in New York and, perhaps more often, in Canada. Enthusiasts traveled from across the nation to attend the formal dances there, where bright kilts and fellow experts abounded.

The only note of caution Janet inserts is that kilts and long dresses are not appropriate wear for learning the dances.

"Some people think they have to have a kilt, but they don't."

JANET AND DOUGLAS will be at Stonehaven Center on West Seventeenth Street in Georgetown every Thursday night between 7:30 and 9:45, starting September 30, ready to teach the formal dancing to anyone interested.

Welcoming everyone over 16 years old to consider joining the group and learning the dances, Janet said, "We had one couple in the (Buffalo) group that were in their 70's. They stuck mostly to the strathspeys, but they danced and they enjoyed it. There's every age, from the high schoolers to the older people.

"Reels and jigs last about 4 to 5 minutes because each couple gets to be dancing (lead) couple twice. It takes a little longer with the strathspey; it's a slower dance.

"The strathspey probably originated in Scotland where the River Spey is, but that's one of the things that's lost in the mists of time."

This is very social dancing done in sets of eight people. It's not a case of going and dancing with a partner all night; you dance with everybody.

Although Janet explained that the Dancing Society mainly offers a social evening, a time for adults to mingle with old friends and meet new during the course of a pleasant night of dancing, she agrees that at first she will have to be the teacher as the rest of the group learns the steps and dances.

"I will be teaching because people will have to learn, but it's just a social affair. I'm hoping that once it starts we can keep it going for years.

"We'll charge about 50 cents per person to cover the cost of the room and we will probably have tea and cookies, something very light.

"It's thirsty work dancing."

As the group forms, new dancers are still invited to join with teachers showing them basic steps and then inviting them to try dancing with the more experienced dancers.

It's actually easier, Janet explained, to learn by dancing with others who know how and can guide the newcomer through.

But with an attitude of "there's always a starting place," she is confident that starting a completely new group here will be equally fun.

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

One thing about small towns in communities that has always impressed me particularly is the spirit of the people and their readiness to pitch in when community projects are taking place. It has been proven many times in our community, but the latest examples is the EXES FOOTBALL GAME in which many businessmen and other former Liberty Hill school students are to compete with a team composed of faculty members 8 p.m. Saturday.

The HOMEcoming GAME between our Panthers and the team from Lometa was played Friday night. Though the outcome was yet to be determined at the time of this writing, we're betting on the Panthers! The candidates for homecoming Queen, we learned a bit late, were Donna Holder of the ninth grade, Kelley Sessler of the tenth grade, Kellie Weems of the eleventh grade, and Sandi Carlisle of the twelfth, a truly worthy group of candidates.

Be sure to make plans to eat this evening at The Homecoming Supper in the Liberty Hill School Cafeteria; serving will start at 5 p.m. The MENU will consist of fried chicken, mashed potatoes, green beans, salad. The Liberty Hill School Panther Band is sponsoring this supper, and all proceeds will go into the band uniform fund.

The Liberty Hill Cheerleaders and the Pep Squad have expressed to us their deep appreciation to Becky Stafford for all the help she gave in building up "the school spirit" this year.

The MENU for the Liberty

Hill School Cafeteria for the week of September 20, through 24, is as follows: MONDAY — barbecued wieners, mashed potatoes, green beans, cookies, and milk; TUESDAY — fish, french fries, salad, fruit and milk; WEDNESDAY — spaghetti, salad, spinach, fruit and milk; THURSDAY — tacos, pinto beans, corn, cake and milk; FRIDAY — beef stew, cornbread, salad, fruit and milk.

On Thursday, September 23, The Liberty Hill Lions Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. in the Bakery.

The Panthers' junior high and junior varsity football teams will play their counterparts from Hutto at Panther Field starting at 6 p.m. Thursday. These young men and their coaches are always encouraged by and grateful for your support — PLAN TO BE THERE!

The Liberty Hill Garden Club held its first meeting for the new year September 8, with 16 members and one visitor, Juanita Bell, in attendance. Speaker for this first meeting was Barbara Harris from Austin; her subject was, "What Our Club Should Be Doing."

Dean Cluck, publicity chairperson, urges, "Come on ladies and join our club. As you know, Liberty Hill is growing, and this is one way you can meet a lot of the new people you don't know, besides learning a lot about flowers, gardening, pruning, and times to plant — just about anything you want to know about gardening someone will be able to help you with. We all enjoy being together when we meet on the second Wednesday of each month; the time is ten in the morning and the place is The Rock Church of Christ. We hope to see you there at our next meeting."

Visitors in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Cox and Mrs. Eula Mae Simpson and Robert last week were: Mr. and Mrs. Arther VanWinkle, Mrs. Judy Sumpter, Jerry, John and Pamela, and Mrs. Kathy White and Sheila, all from Bakersfield, California.

A family reunion was held last Sunday in Georgetown's San Gabriel Park with the following in attendance: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barrow from Marlin, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Cox, Kay, Kris, Karlene, and Kim from Andice, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cox, Chad, Cassandra, and Charlotte from Bastrop, Mrs. Eula Mae Simpson and Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell McLeod, Audra, Debra, Karla, and Clifton, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Vickers, Trevor, Shawn, Kenneth, Kevin and Brian, and Patsy Johns, all of Liberty Hill; Chuck Cox, Maggie Crane and Lorie, from Cedar Park, Mr. and Mrs. Arther VanWinkle, Mrs. Judy Sumpter, Jerry, John and Pamela, Mrs. Kathy White and Sheila, all from Bakersfield, California; Mr. and Mrs. Connie Simpson, Richard, Phillip, and Marsene, and Mr. and Mrs. David Simpson, all of Austin.

Mrs. VanWinkle is the former Maggie Cox, who grew up in Liberty Hill. She is the youngest sister of Marvin and Pete Cox

Gower nominated for MH-MR award

An employee of the Travis State School in Austin, Gower was nominated for the award by Activity Therapist James Adams. He was also commended by Mrs. Margaret Alexander, Travis State School Charge for Dorm 15, for his efforts in training residents.

Gower is a 1973 graduate of Florence High School. He also attended Central Texas College in Killeen, where he studied computers and was a magnetic data machine operator at Temple's Scott and White Hospital in 1974.

St. Helen's Catholic Church will sponsor a "retreat" on Saturday, October 9, for the junior high members of the religious classes.

The retreat for the seventh and eighth grade members will begin at 1 p.m. at St. Helen's Parish Center under the direction of Sister Mary Louise Hernandez of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine office in Austin. Also attending will be Father Albert Ruiz of Taylor.

Following registration and a film at the hall, the group will go to the picnic area of the Antonio Schwertner farm on the San Gabriel River for crafts and meditations.

Topic of the retreat will be "Who Is Jesus?"

Later in the evening, Father Al Palermo will close the retreat with Holy Mass on the bank of the river.

City gets highest monthly bill

The City of Georgetown got its highest total monthly bill of 1976 Tuesday night, a $231,217.19 tab for goods and services rendered the city during August.

City Councilmen approved payment of that amount to 117 corporate and individual billers with $14,529.07 from the city's General Fund and $216,688.12 from the Utility Fund.

THE AUGUST BILL represents a $77,787.66 leap over the $153,429.53 July bill, which was third highest of the year. The second highest monthly bill the city has received in 1976 was the $179,567.31 total of June.

Second highest bill fluctuation of the year was the $59,048.15 increase recorded between May and June; third was the $26,137.78 decrease between June and July.

Asst. City Manager W. L. Walden said the electricity bill from the Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA), which caused the city to up its monthly fuel adjustment charge from 75 to 94 percent, accounted in large measure for the higher total bill.

"THAT ELECTRICITY BILL was $50,000 higher than the month before," said Walden. "That tends to kick it on up there a little bit."

LCRA once again sent the city's biggest bill, a $176,785.95 tab for 6,794,400 kilowatt hours (kwh) of electricity used. Of that amount, $63,907.27 was the total flat rate bill for the electricity and $112,858.68 was paid for fuel adjustment, the cost of purchasing fuel to generate electricity.

Last month the city paid LCRA $124,959.75 for 5,271,500 kwh. That bill included $51,888.99 for the flat rate charge, and $73,070.76 for fuel adjustment.

SO FAR this year, the city has paid $1,238,976.30 for goods and services, an average of $154,872.03 per month. The money has been paid to 787 billers, an average of $1,574.31 per bill. The city is averaging 98 bills per month.

Monthly bill totals have been:
• August — $231,217.19
• July — $153,429.53

• June — $179,567.31
• May — $120,519.16
• April — $134,440.05

• March — $132,642.81
• February — $143,757.72
• January — $143,392.69

production: before two or three weeks at a minimum. Local Ford dealer, Bennie Draeger and sons, appears to have a substantial inventory on hand.

Several people are charged with a conspiracy to murder Senator Kennedy in Springfield, Mass. One character was said to be offering $30,000 for a hit man: "$5,000 down and $25,000 when you do the job."

The government says making pennies has become a losing business, and the darn things just aren't worth the trouble, which is also something a lot of people are saying about the government these days. Anyway, a study is recommending that the U.S. mint eliminate the one cent piece by 1980. Perhaps replacing them with the two dollar bill, eh?

COUNTRY SINGER Willie Nelson says he is through with outdoor concerts. They aren't worth the hassle and besides, he lost money on the last one, Willie elucidates.

It will be easier to find the City Hall in Cedar Park after a planned sign has been raised. Up to now the best direction has been, "across from the liquor store." The city council voted Sept. 7 to purchase an identification sign for the building. The Leander school district was told Tuesday that hopes for federal grants to pay for a water treatment plant are fading fast. The plant, needed to serve the school system, will cost in the neighborhood of $130,000.

W-BCO elects Jarrell chair

New officers for the Williamson-Burnet County Opportunities, Inc. Board of Directors were elected when the board met in Georgetown Monday night.

Elected board chairman was Zona Gail Thompson, who has represented the Williamson County Teachers' Association as board member of the local Community Action Agency since November 13, 1972.

Miss Thompson teaches seventh and eighth grade reading and Texas history, as well as high school speech and drama, at Jarrell.

All shots will be given with needle and syringe rather than the needle guns which may be used in some areas of the nation.

"We can't wait for the needle guns — that would cause a six-to-eight-week delay," Myers said. "That's just too late. We can't afford to wait that long."

He also explained that the needle guns are helpful only when a large, continuous flow of persons are receiving the immunization.

"If there's any delay or lag in the people coming in it's not effective. If the vaccine dries in the tiny openings of the needle gun it clogs up. You have to keep using it to keep it open."

Although the serum must be refrigerated, the health officer reported keeping it cool during all-day inoculation sessions will be no problem.

"We'll be furnished little plastic picnic ice boxes by the state. But you can get 10,000 doses in a cubic foot of volume — so it's not that much trouble to refrigerate."

posed to 2.2 cents per kwh elsewhere. He also presented a study showing Georgetown's commercial electrical rates higher than those of other Central Texas cities of comparable size served by the Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA).

COUNCILMAN HARRY GOLD asserted that Safeway had gotten a bargain on its original lease of land for its Georgetown store, cited the city's low property tax rate, and said high operating costs might be attributed to insufficient sales.

He and other councilmen opposed the request for re-instatement of the large commercial rate, but agreed to study the matter further.

consider salary for a secretary." The system would require one person to act as an operator, receiving and channeling all incoming calls.

Orr countered the objection by saying that a secretary already handling a "not unusually light" load could work the switchboard.

"I think we need to take that into study before we make any decision," decided Commissioner Bob Rozacky, and the others concurred.

A $932.62 check will be sent to the Capital Area Planning Council as a result of other action taken Monday during the court session. The money is in semi-annual payment of the county's dues to the organization.

Also renewed was the county's contract to supply space at the Taylor county office building for the Taylor Mental Health-Mental Retardation office.

Making the motion, Taylor Commissioner W. F. Schlickeisen stipulated that renewal would day afternoon to save all these people from coming in from outlying communities. Then we'll do the same thing the second weekend and this will probably take care of the whole county.

"The reason I want to give it in two weeks is that the earlier they get it the better off they are. It takes two weeks to develop some protection after the vaccine is given."

The early part of November is considered to be the starting of the flu season. If we don't get people vaccinated prior to that time there's not as much point to it," said the health director, who also serves in that capacity for Williamson's northern neighbor, Bell County.

VOLUNTEERS will help with traffic flow and questions while area doctors will be present in case of emergency. Forms explaining the purpose of the inoculations will be signed by everyone receiving shots, and are available in both Spanish and English.

"I am sure we will probably have to have some bilingual volunteers because of the form you have to sign," said Donna Barksdale of Georgetown, who is coordinating volunteer efforts for the immunization program.

Although Mrs. Barksdale said she has received commitments from two or three Georgetown clubs, she is looking for volunteers to help in Taylor, Round Rock and Leander.

City Attorney Joe B. McMaster is scheduled to report to the Council on legal questions concerning proposed construction of duplexes on Parker Lane, northwest of the city, by M and W Enterprises.

THE MOVE is being opposed by a group of area residents, who presented a protest petition with 19 signatures to the last meeting of the Georgetown Planning and Zoning Commission.

Representatives for developers of the Tonkowan subdivision, a 51-acre tract to be developed as 2-acre residential tracts northeast of Georgetown Municipal Airport, will also present a final plat for the subdivision to the Council.

be contingent upon the contract being identical to the previous year's agreement.

Agreeing with a letter from directors of the Texas County and District Retirement Systems, the court unanimously passed a resolution opposing nationwide federal control over state and local government retirement plans.

"I THINK they're trying to bail out Social Security," smiled Rozacky as commissioners discussed the proposed Public Employee's Retirement Security Act.

"I think we should oppose it — very much so," agreed Schlickeisen.

A resolution passed by the Retirement Systems board contended, "The basic but erroneous premise on which such legislation is proposed is that many public plans are inadequately administered and funded, and that these assumed defects justify federal intervention and regulation of all such public systems."

VISITORS from out of town may camp in San Gabriel Park during the show activities. Utilities hook-ups for campers and trailers are available at City Hall for a fee.

There is no charge for admission to the Arts and Crafts Show. Sponsored by the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce, it is a self-supporting, paid for partly by proceeds from entry fees ($10 for a 10 by 10-foot wall space, $7.50 for a 6 by 6-foot center space).

SO FAR, our entries include oil paintings, pen and ink drawings, jewelry, macrame, hand-painted china, pottery, metal art, graphics, photography, and hand-made wooden accessories, among others," said Mrs. Wood.

"We have entries from as far away as Lafayette, Colorado, and Des Plaines, Illinois. Of course, we have some of our Georgetown people entered, too."

"All the items to be shown are hand-crafted, because we don't accept any mass-produced items," she added. "Some of the items shown will be for sale and some will be for show only — that's up to the exhibitor. But since the items are hand-crafted, anything you buy here will, in a way, be one of a kind."

Highway patrol investigates county mishaps

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 55 accidents on rural highways in Williamson County during the month of August, according to Sergeant Fred Hurst, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These 55 accidents resulted in one death and 28 injuries for the month of August. These figures result in a total of 433 accidents with 16 death and 241 injured in Williamson County during 1976.

Paul Harvey

TV talk shows are a continuing forum for Hollywood actors who play at politics.

There is a pathetic out-of-dateness to the protestations of a Jane Fonda when she lashes out at "the rich people" and rails against "the big corporations."

Especially since she is herself "rich" by all accepted standards.

AND THE MOVIE BUSINESS which she promotes and from which she profits is itself one of the biggest corporations.

And then there's Paul Newman.

Paul Newman, the actor, has been testifying before a congressional committee against the oil industry.

His announced mission is to "break up the big oil companies."

He is writing letters seeking money to further a campaign against what he calls the petroleum industry's "record profits" and "monopolistic powers."

He says, "For too long they have gotten away with paying almost no taxes."

John Lofton Jr. recently reminded Newman that his own hit movie, "The Sting," made more than $100 million in worldwide rentals. The screenwriter says profits from that one movie will make Newman a millionaire.

DOUBTLESS PAUL NEWMAN did all right. If Fonda and Newman really want to bust up the biggies, they can start with themselves.

MCA, which owns Universal Studios, profits jumped the first quarter of this year 45 percent — to $15 million.

And the number of these "giants" in the movie industry — seven — is precisely the same as the number of "giants" in the oil industry.

As to the taxes they pay, Robert Lindsay of the New York Times recently revealed that motion picture tax-shelter deals enable the rich to take tax deductions, not just for the money they invest in a movie but for up to 20 times the amount they invest.

And further, these tax-shelter deals in the movie industry reportedly have been connected with outright frauds — fictitious movie costs, movies imported just for tax purposes, sex-parties as an investor come-on.

THESE PLAY-ACTORS who represent themselves to be crusaders against the evils of the establishment are the establishment!

When these show business Robin Hoods accuse industry of providing tax advantages for rich people which penalize poor people, let us remember that they are themselves willing conspirators in the evil they pretend to deplore.

Hit the middleman

We don't know the answer and presumably law-enforcement officials don't either, but crime — thankfully, still confined mostly to theft, burglary and vandalism — has waded into Williamson County hip-deep.

RESIDENTIAL RIP-OFFS are costly and not only to the victims. Comprehensive home insurance, which strives to compensate the victim, goes up a notch every time a policy-holder is victimized. Soon, if the trend continues, home owner insurance will go the route of medical malpractice insurance. We won't be able to buy it.

Thugs are finding it easier to work in rural areas than in the cities and many are utilizing sophisticated methods to totally clean out homes located in secluded areas.

One effective way to stop the constant theft of radios, CBs, TV sets, jewelry and other expensive saleable items would be to concentrate on firms, mostly pawn shops, who traffic in this sort of merchandise, to make them legally and criminally responsible for the legitimacy of the merchandise they purchase from guys bringing it in. You can't kid us, these dealers know, 90 times out of a 100 at least, when they are dealing in stolen property.

LAW OFFICIALS report that one of the new major distributors of illegal merchandise is the flea market. Most of these flea market people, they are quick to add, are totally honorable artisans, or just small merchants hustling to make a buck. A few, however, have connections with the underworld and are getting their merchandise through the illegal pipeline. It is always the "few" that mess things up for the vast majority, isn't it?

The grandiose scheme of ripping-off homes, cars and business establishments might well simmer down if the thieves had no ready place to profitably unload all the items they steal.

Enough's Enough

Some things we simply cannot understand. Like why county ambulance supervisor James Simonson seemingly cannot get it through his head that an ambulance is going to continue to be stationed in Round Rock.

Time and time again, Simonson brings forward to the county commissioners first one proposal and then another, all designed to reduce in effectiveness or outright eliminate the ambulance station here. Each time, the commissioners have voted to keep a station here.

Now Simonson is back with yet another proposal: that Round Rock and Cedar Park's stations be combined and locate it somewhere between the two cities.

Please, Mr. Simonson, Round Rock is tired of constantly having to fight for its own ambulance station. Tired, but not tired out. We will continue to fight for it each time the question is raised.

We still would like to know: how many times must the county commissioners vote on this matter before the county ambulance service understands that their decision to keep a station located in Round Rock is final? — Larry Jackson, in The Round Rock Leader.

Comic art you can bank on

By George Moneyhun

New York

Jack Melcher has not forgotten. He is still a Tom Mix fan, and he has the medals to prove it.

With just a little prodding, Mr. Melcher, who lives in Waukegan, Illinois, will talk about his Tim Mix spurs, his Tom Mix belt buckle with a secret compartment, his Tom Mix belt that glows in the dark, or Tom Mix's original wooden six-guns made in the 1930s.

For Robert Lesser of New York City, it is Buck Rogers who makes his eyes light up. Mr. Lesser, a sign painter, boasts he has the world's biggest collection of Buck Rogers memorabilia, including an original Buck Rogers space station, Buck Rogers roller skates with rear lights, and, of course, Buck Rogers bubble-gum cards.

Etienne Robeal is a Paris newspaper illustrator who admits he goes ape over Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck. Mr. Ro-

beal and his wife were in New York City last week poking through shops in hopes of unearthing a new Mickey Mouse toy to add to the 1,000 or so they already have in Paris.

These nostalgia collectors are typical of the growing number of adults — and children — caught up in the still-mushrooming fad of collecting "comic art" from America's past; anything from Little Orphan Annie's secret code ring to an original 1933 Mickey Mouse clock that sells for $1,500 today.

Attic artifacts

Old toys, trinkets, comic books, and TV and radio premiums from the 1930s and '40s — items that until 1968 were routinely tossed out of attics to make room for more junk — are hotly sought after today. They are displayed at collectors' shows, traded, and bought and sold — sometimes at very high prices.

Many pop art collectors feel they are in the vanguard of a cultural revolution that the working class or blue-collar workers can relate to. They are disturbed that art museums refuse to take their "comic art" seriously.

Mr. Lesser, author of a book entitled "Celebration of Comic Art and Memorabilia," complains "the European art establishment" is openly prejudiced against "popular art," as Mr. Lesser calls it, and it pressures art museums in the United States and Europe not to exhibit such items.

Comic art collectors insist there is as much beauty in an early Donald Duck drawing by artist Carl Barks, who drew Walt Disney characters in the 1930s, as there is in a Picasso painting — a view with which many art enthusiasts would disagree.

With some 100,000 comic-book collectors in the U.S. alone, Mr. Lesser argues that "youth is on our side" and that eventually art circles will be forced to recognize comic art as art.

Sophisticated specialization

In the meantime, nostalgia collecting is developing its own sophistication, with collectors specializing in various forms of the "art." Mr. Melcher, for instance, heads the Radio Premium Collectors Society, which prizes advertising premiums offered to youngsters in the 1930s on such programs as Little Orphan Annie, Captain Midnight, Tom Mix, and Jack Armstrong. There are 168 radio premium shows in the U.S. and Canada, says Mr. Melcher.

Other collectors specialize in early television premiums from such programs as Sergeant Preston, Captain Video, Howdy Doody, and Tom Corbett.

Walt Disney toys — early Mickey Mouses in particular — are in big demand. Original Disney characters, those in the 1930s had a different look: Mickey more closely resembled a rodent, and Donald Duck had a longer bill. These are most highly prized by Disney collectors. As with many other companies, Walt Disney Productions has been purchasing original Disney toys to place in museums in Disneyland and Walt Disney World, thereby helping push prices up. A Three Little Pigs alarm clock, for instance, has sold for $680.

Collectors have become adept at spotting fake or counterfeit items, a growing number of which have appeared recently. After all, who would want a fake Buck Rogers solar scout badge, when he could have the real thing?

And some collectors are holding on to contemporary premiums and toys, anticipating that in a few years 1976 "nostalgia" may become valuable.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Don:

I know all of us are delighted with the approval of the loan for the Georgetown Hospital. It has indeed been a long wait, but I think everyone connected with the application, including the FmHA, should be satisfied with the arrangement.

I notice that you had commented that I had "filed a suit" at one time against the FmHA, and if I said that or anything like it, I misspoke. What I have done is ask for a review and/or investigation of one project in Columbus, and we are looking into that question now. It is not a lawsuit, but the purpose is to ascertain why we continue to have interminable delays. Surely we can find quicker ways to do business.

Overall, I have found the FmHA to be one of the most responsive agencies in government that we have. But I think they can get bogged down with too much bureaucracy. Perhaps this is a common failing with anyone in government, my office included, and I think we have to work toward doing a better job. At any rate, I have not filed suit and wanted to correct that indication.

Sure good to visit with you the other day, and hope to see you in Georgetown soon.

Sincerely yours,
J. J. PICKLE

Kissinger's African Diplomacy
Makes Ford Nervous

WASHINGTON — President Ford has issued strong public statements supporting Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. But in the privacy of his oval office, the President is nervous about Kissinger's African adventures.

Ford's advisers are convinced that the President lost the Texas primary last spring because Kissinger was too outspoken against the white Rhodesian regime. Now they are worried that Kissinger will get the President in trouble again with his African diplomacy.

One of Kissinger's objectives is to bring the blacks to power in Rhodesia by peaceful means. He is also bringing pressure on South Africa to grant independence to its Southwest African territory. This would become the new nation of Namibia, under black rule.

This support of black aims in Africa has upset vocal conservatives, who are threatening to abandon President Ford in November. So the President has been watching Kissinger's operations in Africa with increasing wariness.

TAX HAVENS: Thousands of rich Americans hide their income in secret foreign bank accounts. They use the bank secrecy laws of foreign governments to cheat the Treasury out of taxes. The taxes they escape paying, of course, must be made up by the rest of us.

These foreign countries are known as "tax havens." They are located around the globe in such places as Switzerland, Hong Kong, Gibraltar and the Caribbean Islands.

Criminals use these tax havens to deposit millions in illicit, untaxed profits. Giant multinational corporations also hide huge sums in secret foreign accounts.

The bank secrecy laws in these countries protect the tax-evading depositors. Of course, this attracts the shady money. It's good business for the banks and good economics for the governments.

But it's bad economics for the United States. Yet believe it or not, the Internal Revenue Service is helping to protect the tax evaders with foreign bank accounts. The income tax forms used to ask the taxpayers whether they kept any foreign bank accounts. If they lied about it, they risked going to prison.

But the Internal Revenue Service mysteriously eliminated the question from the tax returns last year. This key question could trip up the big-money tax evaders.

Now, however, Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, has introduced legislation that will force Internal Revenue to put the question back in the tax forms.

POISON PROFITS: The Environmental Protection Agency is supposed to keep poisons out of the air we breathe and the water we drink. Yet the agency has refused to accept evidence that two of the most widely used pesticides can cause cancer.

Under federal law, the EPA must set standards on pesticides. Preliminary testing at the National Cancer Institute indicates that Endrin and Toxaphene cause cancer in rats and mice.

Yet environmental czar Russell Train refused to accept the evidence. He even ignored his own agency's study, which showed that Endrin caused cancerous tumors in rats and produced birth defects in hamsters.

The agency has proposed standards that at least would decrease the amount of Endrin and Toxaphene released into the environment. But the agency has refused to police production. Waste from the factories that produce the pesticides, meanwhile, enters our rivers.

Why won't the EPA crack down? It would reduce the profits of the chemical companies, which manufacture 122 million pounds of the two dangerous pesticides every year.

FEDERAL NAG: The U.S. Export-Import Bank is subsidizing a race horse. Its name is "Boydon Hanover." The New York owners have sold the horse to a stud farm in Christchurch, New Zealand, for $135,000.

The Export-Import Bank is bankrolling half of the mortgage on the horse. This comes to $57,375. The other half is financed by an Australian bank.

A spokesman for the government-supported Export-Import Bank told my office that the bank usually handles cattle transactions.

But occasionally, he acknowledged, the bank will finance breeding stock sales. It has a heavy interest, he admitted, in a horse named "Boydon Hanover."

ILLEGAL LOTTERY: The Navy's Public Works department has been operating an illegal lottery for three years. The lottery has been conducted during government time, on government property. Yet the profits went into the pockets of the Navy officials who ran it.

The Navy was unaware of the lottery's existence until we alerted them. The lottery has now been closed, and Admiral Ralph Carmahan has ordered an investigation. A Navy spokesman confirmed that the lottery was a clear violation of federal regulations.

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

By Bill Kidd

AUSTIN — Time was when an angry Democrat or Republican could go home from his party's nominating convention, and if he didn't like the way things came out, start himself a new political party. But new laws in Texas have made it so you have to start out made early in an election year to form a third or fourth or fifth party.

So, with the Republican and Democratic state conventions out of the way, the two sure-enough political parties can get along with the business of electing Gerald Ford or Jimmy Carter as president.

Both Texas parties had pretty good scrimmages between their first and second teams to get ready for the big game on Nov. 2. There was a lot of talking and carrying on the fights over the party chairmanships, but when they were over, both parties seemed fairly intact.

"This is just for practice" or "we're just making more Democrats" are the ways the intraparty fights are explained.

It was not so long ago that things were different. In 1948, for example, Democrat Harry Truman had to win despite party bolts in both directions. Strom Thurmond, now a Republican senator from North Carolina, headed the States Rights Party ticket. Former Vice President Henry Wallace headed the Progressive Party ticket. Both were on the ballot in Texas, as was Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican nominee. Despite the three opponents, Truman won.

But Carter won't have that problem this year. Only Eugene McCarthy has tried to start a new leftist Democratic group this year, and he was too late, the courts said.

The November 2 ballot and voting machines will have five parties listed. They are the Democratic, Republican, Raza Unida, Socialist Workers and American Parties. Raza Unida has no presidential candidate. The American Party ticket is Thomas J. Anderson and Rufus Shackelford. The Socialist Workers' candidates are Peter Canejo and Willie Mae Reid.

Both those parties had candidates on the 1972 ballot, and between them got less than 15,000 votes. So they do not begin to pose the threat to the two major candidates that Gov. George Wallace did in 1968. His 584,269 votes that year in Texas overshadowed the 38,960 votes by which Hubert Humphrey beat Richard Nixon in Texas, and his national total has often been described as the reason Nixon beat Humphrey.

This year, the loser will not have that excuse.

Actually, the intra-party battles which sent rump delegations to the Republican and Democratic conventions in 1952 have seemingly been removed from the political scene. New rules in both parties have made it possible for the losing side to have some representation. That has soothed the political rages which heated Texas convention politics in the 1940s, 1950s and 1960s, like a cooling flow of water into a churning radiator.

So the parties have been forced to find other ways to drive people out of their parties. National polls show continual declines in the percentage and numbers of people who call themselves "Democrat" or "Republican."

But the polls show something else. In addition to the growth in percentages of voters who call themselves "independents," the nation is seeing a growth in the number of people who do not vote.

The Watergate scandal is but one of those scandals, at federal, state and local levels, which have cost public officials the respect of many voters and turned them into non-voters.

Of course, that is nothing new in Texas, this business of non-voting. Between the poll tax, registration every year in January, and other man-made impediments, no governor of Texas has ever been elected by voter registration every year in January, and other man-made impediments, no governor of Texas has ever been elected by a majority of the voters of voting age. And only once, in 1896 before the poll tax was put on, did a majority of the Texans of voting age take part in the election of a governor.

So, if the rest of the nation's people are going to quit voting, it will raise the Texas percentage of the national vote, but not in the Electoral College where the president is picked. That's based on the membership of Congress, not on votes.

Thanks to you
it works...

Discover 4-H

By CAROLYN BONNER
& EDWARD WILKIE

WE HAVE ORGANIZED A NEW 4-H CLUB in Hutto. Any youth 9-19 years of age living in that area can contact Mrs. Gus Almquist, who is the organizational leader, for more information about joining the 4-H Club.

AN ESTIMATED 36 MILLION AMERICANS, about one-sixth of the U.S. population, are former 4-H members according to Extension Service statistics for 1975.

CORRECTION

The SUN incorrectly reported in its September 16 issue that the Jarrell Independent School District's amended 1975-76 budget showed its Interest and Sinking Fund carried a $444.80 deficit.

The Fund in fact ended up with a $444.88 surplus, not a deficit.

The SUN regrets the error.

4-H alumni may be as ordinary as the man next door or as famous as America's first astronaut, Alan B. Shepard, Jr., but as a whole they constitute a vast talent pool in America.

In 1975 there were 5.5 million 4-Hers between the ages of 9-19 in the United States. 23% of these 4-Hers lived on farms, 40% in small towns, 17% in cities over 10,000, and 20% in cities over 50,000. 4-H is the largest youth organization in the United States. 4-H encourages development of character, skills and leadership through learn-by-doing participation.

4-H CLUBS ACROSS THE COUNTRY ARE GETTING ready for their first meetings of the year. Following is a schedule of times and places:

St. Helen's plans fall festival

The Sunday SUN
Page 3

Georgetown, Texas
Sunday, September 19, 1976

Members of St. Helen's Catholic Church are making plans for the biggest Fall Festival ever.

The Rev. Al Palermo, pastor of St. Helen's, emphasizes that the public is cordially invited to participate in the day-long activities at the San Gabriel Community Center on Sunday, September 26.

A barbecue beef dinner will be served from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m., with tickets available at the door.

There will be games and activities of interest for all age groups throughout the afternoon. For the children there will be a goat cart ride, fish pond and many other game booths.

A plant booth will feature a variety of plants at low prices. The handiwork booth will contain many handmade bazaar items such as embroidered pillow cases, crocheted items, aprons and some paintings.

Of particular interest in the afternoon will be an auction. A few of the many items to be auctioned include an old trunk and other antiques, barbecue grill, aluminum screen door, smoker-cooker, and many handmade items including a quilt, lamps, macrame plant hangers and a painting by local artist, Joan Rothhammer.

The ladies of St. Helen's will be serving coffee, cold drinks and pastries, cakes and kolaches during the afternoon. Hamburgers, sausage and sandwiches will be served from 5 p.m. until midnight.

The day's activities will be topped off with a dance from 8 p.m. until midnight with live entertainment by "The Moods."

St. Helen's Church had its beginning in 1931 as a Catholic mission. The church has experienced a steady growth over the years, with its most rapid growth being within the past three years. With 360 families comprising its membership of approximately 1,400, St. Helen's is quickly becoming one of the largest churches in Georgetown.

Use the classified to sell unwanted items, find a job, or hire a worker. Call 863-6555.

IT'S ALL FINISHED FATHER — Jeannette Nemece and son Greg show Father Palermo the handmade quilt that will be auctioned off at the St. Helen's Fall Festival on Sunday, September 26, at San Gabriel Community Center. Some other items of interest which will also be auctioned are an antique trunk, milk can, barbecue grill, picnic table and benches plus many other items. Mrs. Nemece pieced the quilt top and helped Elizabeth Williams and Tillie Kohoutek quilt it.

Jeff Vise takes a handoff from Round Rock quarterback Kenny Cogdell in action against Leander Sept. 10. Round Rock won the game, its first victory of the year, 22-13 over Leander.

Gym glows after Dragon win

At the University of Texas, football victories are celebrated by lighting the tower orange. At Round Rock, football victories are celebrated by lighting the front of the field house red.

The Dragons' 22-13 win over Leander was followed by the debut of the lights, which Round Rock coach Bill Bryant said "are a present for these guys."

"They are for when we finally won a big 'un," he said.

After the game players and cheerleaders streamed through the locker room, going to the front of the gym-field house to see the inaugural lighting.

Doug Asher intercepts a Kenny Cogdell pass in third quarter action.

SU women's volleyball opens with two wins

Southwestern University's volleyball team opened the season with wins over Mary Hardin-Baylor and Ambassador College in Belton Tuesday night.

The Southwestern women won the first game 10-4 as both teams showed first game nervousness. Then a much improved Mary Hardin-Baylor team bounced back to take the second game 13-15.

Southwestern controlled the third and deciding game all the way, however, with Tracy Strane serving 10 straight points while Melissa Hardberger was having a good night at the net with her spikes to lead the Pirates to a 15-4 win.

Against Ambassador College the Southwestern girls jumped off to an early lead and Coach Glada Munt emptied the bench as her charges won 15-1 and 15-10. Risa Marshall and Jan Loudan both looked sharp for Southwestern in the second match with their spiking and defensive work.

Southwestern is in its third year of playing in the Texas Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, and Coach Munt shows optimism for an improved season.

"We're two months ahead of where we were at this time last year," she says.

Captains this year are Miss Hardberger, a Lamesa sophomore, and Janice

REVIVAL TEMPLE PENTECOSTAL CHURCH OF GOD: Sunday School, 10 a.m. Morning Worship 11 a.m. P.Y.P.A. (youth) service 7:00 p.m. Evangelistic 8 p.m. Mid-week Evangelistic Service on Thursday 8 p.m. Located on Anderson Mill Rd. off 183 North. Pastor Rev. Norman Fikes

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

TODD SUSMAN, as aviator Stan Lewis, sprains his ankle and finds himself stranded, when the plane he's flying crash lands in the wilderness of central California on Spencer's Pilots, airing September 24 (8-9 p.m., ET) over CBS.

New production starts at Country Dinner Playhouse

"How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," one of Broadway's longest running and most glittering successes, will be on the stage of Austin's Country Dinner Playhouse from September 14 until October 17. This musical extravaganza is under the direction of well-known New York director, Buff Shurr, who recently staged the popular "Fiddler on the Roof" and "1776."

"How to Succeed" is a hilarious spoof of the classic business stereotypes. Mark Rodgers stars as Finch, a man skilled at the double cross, whose heart beats in two-time, whose instinct is for the jugular, and who is particularly charming when he sings to the mirror, "I Believe in You." The business arena is teeming with interesting characters: a marriage-minded secretary who is smitten by Finch; a typical bigwig company president; and the president's hilariously out-to-lunch nephew, Frump. Some of the musical highlights of the show include "The Company Way," "Happy to Keep His Dinner Warm," and "Brotherhood of Man."

The Country Dinner Playhouse is happy to announce the addition of Head Chef, John O'Reilly, to its staff. A delicious buffet dinner will prelude the fabulous Heymaker show. Then, sit back, relax, and enjoy "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

To make reservations or ask about special group rates, call (512) 836-5921. On Friday and Saturday nights there will be dancing following the show and all drinks will be discounted 25 cents off their original prices. Plan to stay around and make a night of it.

Freddie Prinze, the high school dropout, seems to be making it very big these days. NBC has signed him to an exclusive contract, covering World Premiere movies, specials and series. In addition to his role on Chico and the Man, Prinze recently completed an album, "Looking Good," and starred as the leader of a gang of women planning a payroll heist in "Money to Burn," airing September 22. Henry Fonda has been signed for the cameo role of Senator Basset in an upcoming segment of NBC's Best Sellers: Captains and the Kings.

Two veterans of the Police Story force, Desi Arnaz Jr. and Tony Musante, will star together on the show in a drama titled "Going the Distance." Being in the right place at the right time paid off for Pat Morita of the new Mr. T and Tina sit-com. The right place was the unemployment line, where a show biz friend standing nearby suggested that he try for the role of Arnold on Happy Days. He did and now a few years later he's got his own show.

Arthur Hill and Jan Sterling will play the parents of Charles Ingalls (Michael Landon) in a special two-hour presentation of Little House on the Prairie this year. Penny Marshall recently taped a segment of The Captain & Tennille, and it turned out to be the toughest assignment of her career. One of the sketches involved an attempt on her part to get the stone-faced Captain to laugh. Despite her best efforts, which included an Olympian cartwheel and pivoting on the Captain's lap, while singing "Put on a Happy Face," the Captain remained unmoved. So, she concluded the number by singing the finale while standing on her head on top of his electric organ.

Science fiction is getting a boost on television this year. Production is currently underway on a sci-fi film, "Fantastic Journey," which will be a pilot for a possible series. Starring as a group of people stranded on an island where the past, present and future coexist are Scott Thomas, Susan Howard, Jared Martin, Carl Franklin, Karen Somerville and Ike Eisenmann.

Audra Lindley has been added to the regular cast of Doc. Lindley, who recently co-starred in Fay and was a Golden Globe nominee for her role in Bridget Loves Bernie, will join three other actors -- David Ogden Stiers, Lisa Mordente and Ray Vitte -- being added to the cast.

Billy Jack will be busting heads this fall on the home screen. The unexpected box office hit has been acquired by NBC. Ballet buff Joanne Woodward will be the on-camera narrator for "Little Women," the ballet version of the Louisa May Alcott novel to be presented December 14. Mike Evans, who became prominent nationally as a result of his portrayal of Lionel on All in the Family, will be regular on The Practice this year. He'll play one of Dr. Bedford's (Danny Thomas) medical students, who also works part-time in the hospital coffee shop.

It's been said that ballet demands more athletic prowess than any sport. Whether or not you agree, you should enjoy "Dance of the Athletes," a special focusing on the athleticism shared by sports figures and dancers. Edward Villella, principal dancer with the New York City Ballet will compare his work with that of Tom Seaver, Jerry Grote, Bob Giese, Virginia Wade, George McGinnis and Muriel Grossfeld, in the September 26th episode of The CBS Festival of Lively Arts for Young People. "Hot Ice and Cold Hearts" is the name of an upcoming episode of Quincy, the latest installment in the NBC Sunday Mystery Movie lineup. Stuart Whitman, Andrew Prine, Robert Alda and Fernando Lamas join series' star Jack Klugman for the show.

Mark Shera, a former S.W.A.T.er, makes his first appearance as Barnaby Jones' cousin on the September 30th premiere of the series. His character's name is J.R. Jones. The J.R. stands for Jedediah Romano, the result of having a father from Tennessee and an Italian mother. Clever, huh? As a result of some double-think at NBC in regard to its fall schedule, two shows have been shelved. Snip and Gibbville have both been postponed until later in the season.

Strange saga of 'Tokyo' Roz Kelly

As every Happy Days aficionado knows by now, Fonzie falls in love this week to one Pinky Tuscadero, the best looking hotrodder to ever roar through town. The big event takes place Tuesday, Sept. 21 (8-9 p.m., ET) in a special one-hour premiere.

Pinky is played on the show by an aspiring superstar named Roz Kelly. Who, you might very well ask, is Roz Kelly? Well, in response to such a question, Ms. Kelly herself submitted a bio, reprinted below. Referring to herself in the third person at all times, Roz details her life's experience with refreshing humor and pizzazz. If Pinky Tuscadero is anything like Roz Kelly, she'll be more than a match for the Fonzie.

Well, here it is, entitled "Success Without College or The Roz Kelly Story."

Roz Kelly was born and raised in New York City and is looking forward to growing up in Hollywood.

She made her stage debut at age five, understanding very early that there was no place for her in real life. Singing and dancing her way through childhood, she commenced slinging hash in her late teens and has a list of restaurant and coffee shop credits as long as that of her independently unreleased movies. They alone would constitute a retroactive career. Her school -- NYS (New York Streets) -- has much to do with her style of acting. . . "Early Irish" . . . Cagney, O'Hara and Tracy.

In November of '74, she headed for the land of automotive distress enthusiastically bubbling, "Hey, I'm from New York, where's da work?" No one told her. Then one day she met (agent) James McHugh over luncheon. She was serving it. A fluffy white mound of cottage cheese and coffee. . . basic black. He was perusing a script. Still on jet lag and having left her manners in New York, she subtly inquired if he was a director, and with the same finesse whipped out her portfolio which just happened to be under the counter. History was in the making.

Mr. McHugh, together with Hilda Herzbrun, scanned her lengthy resume recognizing many of the names. Hers was not one of them. This did not deter them. Assignment Redhead was launched. . . Roz Kelly was given her break.

She was featured as Barbra Streisand's roommate in "The Owl and the Pussycat," and also appeared in the films, "Greetings," "Sweet Dreams" and "The Female Response." She has also had roles in various theatrical productions, including "Rain."

She appeared in a Starsky & Hutch episode during the past season and reappears in the series' two-hour premiere on September 25.

Miss Kelly is also an excellent photographer and has been frequently published in New York Magazine, Harper's, Arts, Mademoiselle, Gentlemen's Quarterly, Art Direction, Rolling Stone, Modern Photography and more recently, New West.

Technically everything the girl does is a mistake, but luckily she is a genius. She is planning to attend UCLA this fall and is considering English as a second language. Her close friends call her Tokyo Roz, Wolf-Girl, or not at all.

Her favorite color is pink.

One of the toughest troopers in Hollywood is a 68 pound pig-tailed 12 year old.

Melissa Gilbert, who stars as Laura Ingalls in NBC's Little House on the Prairie, is a firm believer in that old show biz axiom "the show must go on," no matter what. Last year she was carted in and out of a number of shots after having dislocated her knee in a bicycle crack-up.

A month ago she underwent a double hernia operation. She did a full day of shooting before entering the hospital and was back at work two days later. By the end of the week she was playing in the lunch-break baseball games.

The Electric Company will have a new look when it begins its sixth season on PBS October 18. To help readers focus more clearly on the goals included in each program, two characters will join the show's repertory company. Steve Awesome, the $6.39 Man and a new animated character named Clayton will come to the rescue of 7-10 year olds who have trouble reading.

Since last season, the producers have been making subtle format changes in an effort to increase the educational impact of the curriculum of each program. This season they will introduce "curriculum clusters" -- grouping of segments that deal with the same reading skill. There will also be only three goals in each show, a number that producers feel is more manageable than the four to six that were included in earlier seasons.

With all this serious talk, though, the kids shouldn't worry that the show will cease to be fun. A reliable source has it that it's as zany as ever.

This will be the last production season for The Electric Company. The 130 programs, along with those from the 1975-76 season, will be repeated alternately until 1980. These 260 shows include all the most successful techniques the producers and researchers devised in their task of teaching basic reading skills.

"The Lunatic Express," a television drama by Peter Viertel recounting the struggle to build the first railroad through the woodlands, swamps and deserts of East Africa, has been commissioned by NBC. Survival Anglia, which has a development agreement with the network, will film the African epic.

Viertel has previously written screenplays for such movies as "The Sun Also Rises" and "The African Queen" and is the author of two novels, "White Hunter, Black Heart" and "Bicycle on the Beach."

The film will be shot in East Africa, using many of the historical locations involved in the construction of the original railroad. Dubbed "the lunatic express" by critics who claimed "where it is going nobody knows," the railroad managed to span 600 miles of unmapped territory from Mombassa to Lake Victoria. It was completed in 1901 after 5 years of work.

The best place to write Steve would be his Van Nuys office. The address is 15201 Burbank Blvd., Suite B, Van Nuys, Calif. 91411.

AGELESS -- How is it that Michael Landon is only 14 years older than his eldest son? -- Andy Pritchett, Lowell, Mass.
Wish the answer were more exotic, but Michael is the stepfather of his eldest son, which explains it all.

NEWLEYWEDS -- How long have The Captain and Tennille been married, and how did he get that name? -- Marcie LeRoux, Carbondale, Calif.
Daryl Dragon and Toni Tennille were married on Valentine's Day, 1975, just before their smash single "Love Will Keep Us Together" broke nationally. The Beach Boys' Mike Love supposedly gave Daryl his nickname, when Daryl was a musician and arranger with the band. It derived from the naval captain's hat he wears onstage.

HENRY'S HEIGHT -- Where was Henry Winkler born, and how tall is he? He seems pretty short. -- Andrea Brodtkin, Detroit, Mich.
Henry was born in New York City. His bio has him listed as 5' 6 1/2". I suppose every half inch counts.

STRAIGHT A -- I've fallen in love with Melissa Sue Anderson on Little House on the Prairie. Could you tell me something about her, especially her age? -- Mark Addison, Muncie, Ind.
Melissa, who will be 14 on September 26, is very much like the character she plays. She's a quiet, somewhat shy of the confessional. (R)

girl who loves to read and gets straight A grades in school. One thing she says she can hardly wait for is to be old enough to take flying lessons. She was born in Berkeley and now lives with her parents in Burbank.

GOT THEIR MAN -- There was a TV show on in the '60s, starring Chuck Connors and Ben Gazzara. What was the name of the series? -- Allen Holden, Palo Alto, Calif.
It was Arrest and Trial, a novel idea in programming at the time. Gazzara played a cop, and in the first half of the 90-minute series he would catch the alleged bad guy. Connors, the D.A., would then prosecute in the second half of the show. It aired in 1963.

'TV Quotes'

Jose Molina: "I used to translate things people said to me literally. Someone once gave me a check and I left it in my room. When I needed the money, I asked the desk clerk to change the check for me. 'How big is it?' he asked. I tried to describe the actual size. He should have said 'What is the amount?' I thought he meant actual measurements."

Phil Harris: "Lawrence Welk once asked me if I liked his accordion playing. I told him if you put some grapes in it, something good would come out of it."

Harris: "I've known Bing Crosby for 50 years. It's an experience I will always cherish. He would be a credit to us all as an ambassador."

Glen Campbell: "Sometimes I feel I'm chasin' the south end of a northbound mule."

Mel Brooks: "When I first got started I worked at hotels in upstate New York. I worked the pools. I came out in a derby, a long black coat -- it was 100 degrees -- and a cardboard suitcase full of rocks."

Brooks: "Sometimes you don't make money on a successful film. I did 'The Producers' for $35,000 and spent over four years on it."

Gov. Briscoe wants colleges to be more responsive to today's needs

For over a year now I have spoken out about the increasing cost of higher education in Texas. I have addressed again and again the question of producing more graduates in some fields than there are jobs available. I have done this in the hope that our leaders in education will do something about it.

I have also done it to help our young people to know that they should think twice about their college plans. They need to know that a college education doesn't guarantee a job. They need to know that they had better be careful what field of study they enter. They need to know that vocational and technical training is an honorable goal and also may give them a better opportunity to good jobs than some university degrees.

I HAVE TALKED about this problem for over a year. Now it is time we begin to do something more than talk. I do not believe in a rigid government plan that controls all of the educational programs offered. I do not believe in an inflexible government plan that restricts choices made by the students. I do believe that using the marketplace is always a better way to match up supply and demand. Government plans never have been as effective as the marketplace.

But we have to do something. I do not propose merely to go on talking about these problems. Therefore, I have met on this subject with Harry Provence, Chairman of the Coordinating Board, Kenneth Ashworth, Commissioner of Higher Education, and Marlin Brockett, Texas Commissioner of Education. I have taken five steps to begin to deal with these problems that I have discussed for so long.

First, I have requested the Coordinating Board to issue every spring a series of press releases describing employment opportunities in our State. These releases will particularly describe the situation in those fields where we are over-producing graduates and fields that offer good employment opportunities. This information will help students to stay out of those fields where we are producing too many graduates. This information will help our young people to make decisions about their educational plans after high school that can lead to good jobs. And when students stop enrolling in certain fields, then appropriate adjustments will follow inside our colleges and universities. Adjustments will be made in terms of both funding and staffing.

Second, I have requested the Coordinating Board and the Texas Education Agency to be sure that this information on employment is put in the hands of every high school counselor in Texas and is shared with local school boards, Parent Teachers Association, and school administrators. I also want it placed in the hands of every career counselor in our colleges and universities. Then these people can guide our young people out of the fields where we are producing too many graduates and into fields where they can find productive and rewarding jobs.

Third, I have asked the Texas Education Agency and the Coordinating Board to evaluate the standards for the preparation of teachers and other professional school personnel. I have asked these agencies to do this in order to insure an adequate and balanced supply of personnel for our State school system.

Fourth, I have directed the Coordinating Board to exercise its powers to prevent the creation of additional colleges and universities and to restrict the approval of additional degree programs in such fields as teaching, law, and journalism and other fields of oversupply. I have further directed that board to restrict approval of additional Ph.D. and doctoral programs. Everyone knows that this country is over-producing college teachers now and there are thousands more in the pipelines in the schools still waiting to graduate. Just to give one example, one of our universities in Texas advertised for six new positions in English and received over 1600 applications. As I have said before, this is a waste of human resources as well as the taxpayers' funds. In addition, I have directed the Coordinating Board to eliminate and withdraw degree programs where they cannot be justified at taxpayers' expense.

Fifth, I have asked the Coordinating Board to make special efforts to see that the resources of our fine private colleges and universities are taken into account when new public degree programs are proposed. We must protect this part of our educational system which provides education for over 75,000 students in Texas.

I FEEL CONFIDENT we can expect the full cooperation of our private industry and businesses in helping us to make the employment marketplace work better. I am sure business leaders in Texas will help to see that reliable information on job opportunities flow to our colleges and universities. I expect every educational leader in this state to re-examine their programs. I want them to find out whether they are serving the people who want to find jobs and the people who will hire them. I want to make our marketplace for jobs and graduates work.

We have built a higher education system in Texas to be proud of. It has quality and it is available within 50 miles of 98.5 percent of all of our people. We now need to be certain that it is serving all the people and not just fulfilling the ambitions and egos of faculty members, board members, and administrators.

Schorr case pits free press vs. Congress

By Peter C. Stuart
Staff correspondent of
The Christian Science Monitor

Washington
Daniel Schorr's gruff "no" to the House Ethics Committee has put into motion a struggle which some observers say involves more than just one television newsmen and 12 congressmen.

What has kept alive this controversy over who "leaked" a secret congressional report on the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) published seven months ago is a conviction among the contestants that the well-being of two national institutions — Congress and the press — is at stake.

For a Congress beset by ethical embarrassments — four of its members convicted of offenses, one indicted, one reprimanded, and several charged with sexual improprieties — the Schorr case offers a chance to restore what Ethics Committee Chairman John J. Flynt (D) of Georgia calls "the integrity of the legislative process."

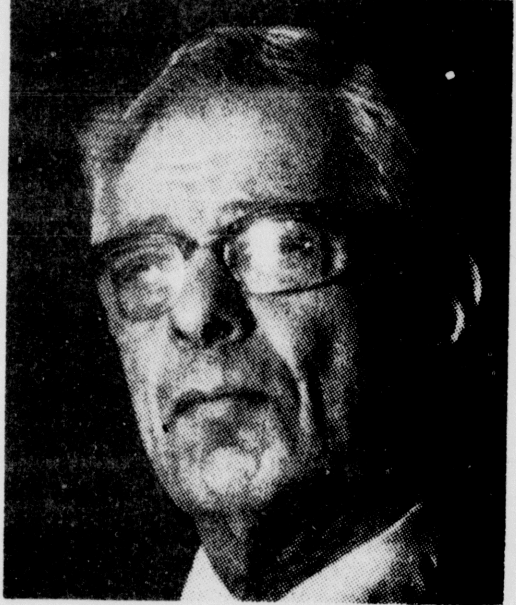

For the press, the confrontation is an inquiry into journalistic rights which Mr. Schorr claimed in his testimony Wednesday (Sept. 15) "can only be damaging to a free press."

Mounting legal pressure

He, and three other journalists testifying with him, took their stand against a background of mounting legal pressures on the nation's news media — "gag orders" curbing coverage of criminal trials increasing in the past decade from just two a year to more than 20 a year, 42 subpoenas to newsmen approved by the attorney general in a recent two-year period, and at least 10 newsmen jailed in the past three years for refusing to reveal news sources.

Thus the Schorr case could become a showdown issue for much of the press and many lawmakers.

Mr. Schorr, the CRS television correspon-

Schorr — battle lines drawn?

dent who concedes supplying a copy of the House Intelligence Committee's secret final report on CIA abuses to the New York weekly newspaper, the Village Voice, which published much of it in February, declined to tell the Ethics Committee where he got his copy.

Betraying a source

"For a journalist," he said, "the most crucial kind of confidence is the identity of a source of information. To betray a confidential source would mean to dry up many future sources for many future reporters. The reporter and the news organization would be the immediate losers. The ultimate losers would be the American people and their free institutions."

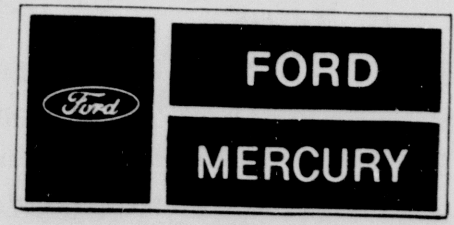

Added Aaron Latham, subpoenaed for having written the introduction to the Village Voice account: "We thought we were doing the country a service, just as the Congress had done the country a service by compiling the report." (The now-defunct Intelligence Committee had voted to release its report, but the full House of Representatives voted to keep it secret.)

The ethics panel, which granted the probe the distinction of being the first full-scale investigation in its eight-year history, devoted to it $150,000, five months of work by 13 former FBI agents, and 285 interviews. Results: the "leader" remains undiscovered.

Parents, teachers and students benefit

ROTARY BEATER ROPE — You've got to be kidding, seems to be what Joanne Rosser (right) is thinking as Trudy Wilson uses an electric hand mixer to twist yarn into rope, the first stage in making a macrame plant holder.

FINISHED PRODUCT — Inspecting the finished pot hanger are Trudy Wilson and Nancy Carlson. If you want to learn how to make these and many other items, go to the craft meetings. If you want to buy one, go to the PTA Carnival.

PUNCHING OUT EYES — Yes, that is what Joyce Andrews and Darlene Parker are doing, punching "eyes" out of felt, for different crafts that are being made for the PTA Carnival.

WINDING YARN — Other activities taking place at the Monday morning craft meetings in the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church include winding yarn and winding more yarn for assorted crafts pompons. Here Betty Kuehn, Wanda McDonald, Darlene Campbell and Rosie Bell try their hand at winding plastic discs with yarn.

NOW ISN'T THAT NEAT — Joanne Rosser and Kathy McCoy, PTA Carnival chairman, admire the rope, which was twisted from a skein of yarn.

HOMEROOM MOTHERS AND BROTHERS AND SISTERS — Primary, Westside Intermediate and Northside Middle School mothers met at the Georgetown High School Little Theater Friday morning to discuss the seated open house planned for the three schools Tuesday, September 21. The homeroom mothers will collect membership dues at the open house from those wishing to sign up for the parent teacher organization.

The Georgetown Parent Teacher Association wants you!

Parents interested in joining the student-oriented organization are invited to join up during the special membership drive being held September 21 through 24.

An opportunity to enable the parent and teacher to better understand their roles in the education of the youth will be provided early in the school year with a seated open house at Primary, Westside Intermediate and Northside Middle School Tuesday night.

Times will be 6 to 7 p.m. at Primary; 7 to 8 p.m. at Westside; and 8 to 9 p.m. at Northside.

Personal communication and cooperation between the parent and teacher benefits the children. Each teacher will speak directly to the parents and children explaining educational programs and processes for the year. This exchange of information will give the teachers an opportunity to get acquainted.

Afterwards there will be time for visiting with other parents and children in your child's classroom.

Membership tables will be operating at each PTA meeting to give everyone an opportunity to become actively involved in PTA. Homeroom mothers will be collecting dues from those signing up Tuesday night.

The PTA offers parent involvement programs in the following areas:

- Homeroom mothers (or dads) — duties will be to coordinate school parties at Christmas, Valentine and end-of-school

- Preparation of materials — donate one day a week from 8:45 to 11 a.m. to work with materials to be prepared for students' and teachers' use. A brief training program will be provided for all workers.

- Craft projects — crafts will be made by the students in the classroom every Wednesday in September and October. These crafts will be sold at the carnival in October.

- Substitute teachers — This requires the proper credentials. The service will allow teachers to attend workshops and visit other schools.

- Special projects — teachers often need an extra hand with special art project or study group. Notice will be given in advance for this special classroom activity.

- Hey Dads — Would you like to volunteer your time on special activity days? Fathers are parents too and are encouraged to become involved in schooltime activities.

The National PTA is an educational organization that unites the forces of home, school and community in behalf of children and youth.

The most important unit of the National PTA, the local association, carries out its program through the work of committees, a democratic practice that enables many persons to share responsibilities. Members are privileged to decide what actions shall be taken on committee reports.

"PTA can be a vital force in the community. PTA can bring educators and the public together. They can focus attention on their members and the public on the schools and explain the importance of schools for the development of the individual, the improvement of the general welfare, and the strengthening of our democracy," Karen McAden, PTA president, said.

"The PTA can provide opportunities for teachers and school officials to interpret educational objectives and methods to the public and to describe school needs and problems. Our youth need your interest in PTA."

Other PTA officers are Jim Shillingburg, first vice president; Nancy Raper, second vice president; Kathy McCoy, third vice president; Judy Harris, fourth vice president; Sandra Fuller, corresponding secretary; Dannelle Ray, secretary; Margaret Persky, treasurer; Penny Draeger, parliamentarian; Penny DeWitt, health and safety; Kathi Holmans and Kay Horner, district officers.

Poetry afoot: Georgetown takes up Scots Country Dance

By NEL PERSKY

Ballroom dancing? In 1976?

Right on!

One of the more ancient but currently popular pastimes is Scottish Country Dancing, a pleasure moving westward to Georgetown from Buffalo, New York, via native Britishers Janet and Douglas Cashmore.

With their two children, Linda and David, the Cashmores moved to Georgetown only seven weeks ago, but are already anxious to begin their dancing.

Fall begins the dancing season on Janet's calendar since, she explains, her dancing group in Buffalo always halted its meetings as summer's rush approached, but regularly began again in mid-September.

Men do look very good in a kilt; I've never seen one who didn't.

Janet, who has been an enthusiast of the formal Scottish dance since she attended high school in Lincolnshire, England, began searching for a dancing club in Texas even before she moved to Georgetown with her husband, a Westinghouse employee.

Although she found another family from Lincolnshire "right here in Georgetown" — the Harry Normans, another Westinghouse family — the nearest Royal Scottish Country Dance Society group is located in Houston.

"I DECIDED if I wanted to dance I'd have to form my own club," she said in a bright British voice. Houston is a little far to travel for a weekly night of dancing.

Certified by the Society three years ago to teach the dances, she explained, "I want everyone everywhere to be able to enjoy the dance."

Of the dance itself, she said, "It's not really 'country.' That's from the French 'contre,' which means 'against.' It's 'against' because you dance in two long lines facing each other; it's ballroom dancing rather than folk dancing.

"This is very social dancing done in sets of eight people so that it's not a case of going and dancing with a partner all night. You dance with everybody."

"It's a mixture of the ancient highland dancing, which I think everyone has seen somewhere, and the French ballet.

"When Mary Stewart returned from France a lot of Frenchmen went back with her and they kind of mixed the dancing they found there with ballet and formed Scottish Country Dancing.

"Some of the dances we do are very, very old; they were being danced in the court of Queen Elizabeth I. But there are new dances being written and made up all the time.

"THE IDEA of the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society was to set standards so that the dances were taught the same way everywhere people are dancing. This means that you can go anywhere in the world and if you find a Scottish Dance club you can join in."

Queen Elizabeth II is patron of the society which was founded 53 years ago to collect and preserve the fast-disappearing dances. Taught verbally and by example, the ancient forms were changing rapidly without the standardization imposed by the Dance Society.

"There are clubs all over the place — New Zealand, Australia, of course in the British places

DANCE WITH US, invite two of Georgetown's newest residents, Janet and Douglas Cashmore. Starting September 30, Janet will be setting aside Thursdays between 7:30 and 9:45 p.m. to organize a social evening of Scottish country dancing at Stonehaven Center. Not to worry if you don't have the full regalia of tartan kilt and full-length dancing dress. Certified by the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society to teach the ball room dancing, the native Britishwoman will start making friends in her new hometown by teaching the dance, hoping the new dancers will share her enthusiasm and continue their meetings as a social occasion. Long dresses and kilts just get in the way for beginners, she explained in a noticeably British voice, but apparently couldn't resist adding, "Although of course, men do look very good in a kilt; I have never seen one who didn't."

— and I danced in Switzerland.

Some of the dances we do are very, very old. They were being danced in the court of Queen Elizabeth I.

"The number of Societies is growing. There are a number on the West Coast; they are just beginning in Alabama and in Washington, D.C. in the north. In the northeast there are quite a few. There's not much in the middle of the country, or in Texas, but it's spreading. As people move they take it with them."

The Cashmores happily remember gay Scottish balls they enjoyed in New York and, perhaps more often, in Canada. Enthusiasts traveled from across the nation to attend the formal dances there, where bright kilts and fellow experts abounded.

The only note of caution Janet inserts is that kilts and long dresses are not appropriate wear for learning the dances.

"Some people think they have to have a kilt, but they don't."

JANET AND DOUGLAS will be at Stonehaven Center on West Seventeenth Street in Georgetown every Thursday night between 7:30 and 9:45, starting September 30, ready to teach the formal dancing to anyone interested.

Welcoming everyone over 16 years old to consider joining the group and learning the dances, Janet said, "We had one couple in the (Buffalo) group that were in their 70's. They stuck mostly to the strathspeys, but they danced and they enjoyed it. There's every age, from the high schoolers to the older people.

"Reels and jigs last about 4 to 5 minutes because each couple gets to be dancing (lead) couple twice. It takes a little longer with the strathspey; it's a slower dance.

"The strathspey probably originated in Scotland where the River Spey is, but that's one of the things that's lost in the mists of time."

This is very social dancing done in sets of eight people. It's not a case of going and dancing with a partner all night; you dance with everybody.

Although Janet explained that the Dancing Society mainly offers a social evening, a time for adults to mingle with old friends and meet new during the course of a pleasant night of dancing, she agrees that at first she will have to be the teacher as the rest of the group learns the steps and dances.

"I will be teaching because people will have to learn, but it's just a social affair. I'm hoping that once it starts we can keep it going for years.

"We'll charge about 50 cents per person to cover the cost of the room and we will probably have tea and cookies, something very light.

"It's thirsty work dancing."

As the group forms, new dancers are still invited to join with teachers showing them basic steps and then inviting them to try dancing with the more experienced dancers.

It's actually easier, Janet explained, to learn by dancing with others who know how and can guide the newcomer through.

But with an attitude of "there's always a starting place," she is confident that starting a completely new group here will be equally fun.

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

One thing about small towns and communities that has always impressed me particularly is the spirit of the people and their readiness to pitch in when community projects are taking place. This has been proven many times in our community, but one of the latest examples is the EXES FOOTBALL GAME in which many businessmen and other former Liberty Hill school students are to compete with a team composed of faculty members on Saturday.

The HOMECOMING GAME between our Panthers and the team from Lometa was played Friday night. Though the outcome was yet to be determined at the time of this writing, we're betting on the Panthers! The candidates for homecoming Queen, we learned a bit late, were Donna Jolder of the ninth grade, Kelley Sessler of the tenth grade, Kellie Weems of the eleventh grade, and Sandi Carlisle of the twelfth, a truly worthy group of candidates.

Be sure to make plans to eat this evening at The Homecoming Supper in the Liberty Hill School Cafeteria; serving will start at 5 p.m. The MENU will consist of fried chicken, mashed potatoes, green beans and salad. The Liberty Hill School Panther Band is sponsoring this supper, and all proceeds will go into the band uniform fund.

The Liberty Hill Cheerleaders and the Pep Squad have expressed to us their deep appreciation to Becky Stafford for all the help she gave in building up "the school spirit" this year.

The MENU for the Liberty

Hill School Cafeteria for the week of September 20, through 24, is as follows: MONDAY — barbecued wieners, mashed potatoes, green beans, cookies, and milk; TUESDAY — fish, french fries, salad, fruit and milk; WEDNESDAY — spaghetti, salad, spinach, fruit and milk; THURSDAY — tacos, pinto beans, corn, cake and milk; FRIDAY — beef stew, cornbread, salad, fruit and milk.

On Thursday, September 23, The Liberty Hill Lions Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. in the Bakery.

The Panthers' junior high and junior varsity football teams will play their counterparts from Hutto at Panther Field starting at 6 p.m. Thursday. These young men and their coaches are always encouraged by and grateful for your support — PLAN TO BE THERE!

The Liberty Hill Garden Club held its first meeting for the new year September 8, with 16 members and one visitor, Juanita Bell, in attendance. Speaker for this first meeting was Barbara Harris from Austin; her subject was, "What Our Club Should Be Doing."

Dean Cluck, publicity chairperson, urges, "Come on ladies and join our club. As you know, Liberty Hill is growing, and this is one way you can meet a lot of the new people you don't know, besides learning a lot about flowers, gardening, pruning, and times to plant — just about anything you want to know about gardening someone will be able to help you with. We all enjoy being together when we meet on the second Wednesday of each month; the time is ten in the morning and the place is The Rock Church of Christ. We hope to see you there at our next meeting."

Visitors in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Cox and Mrs. Eula Mae Simpson and Robert last week were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur VanWinkle, Mrs. Judy Sumpter, Jerry, John and Pamela, and Mrs. Kathy White and Sheila, all from Bakersfield, California.

A family reunion was held last Sunday in Georgetown's San Gabriel Park with the following in attendance: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barrow from Marlin, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Cox, Kay, Kris, Karlene, and Kim from Andice, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cox, Chad, Cassandra, and Charlotte from Bastrop, Mrs. Eula Mae Simpson and Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell McLeod, Audra, Debra, Karla, and Clifton, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Vickers, Trevor, Shawn, Kenneth, Kevin and Brian, and Patsy Johns, all of Liberty Hill; Chuck Cox, Maggie Crane and Lorie, from Cedar Park, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur VanWinkle, Mrs. Judy Sumpter, Jerry, John and Pamela, Mrs. Kathy White and Sheila, all from Bakersfield, California; Mr. and Mrs. Connie Simpson, Richard, Phillip, and Marsene, and Mr. and Mrs. David Simpson, all of Austin.

Mrs. VanWinkle is the former Maggie Cox, who grew up in Liberty Hill. She is the youngest sister of Marvin and Pete Cox

City gets highest monthly bill

The City of Georgetown got its highest total monthly bill of 1976 Tuesday night, a $231,217.19 tab for goods and services rendered the city during August.

City Councilmen approved payment of that amount to 117 corporate and individual billers with $14,529.07 from the city's General Fund and $216,688.12 from the Utility Fund.

THE AUGUST BILL represents a $77,787.66 leap over the $153,429.53 July bill, which was third highest of the year. The second highest monthly bill the city has received in 1976 was the $179,567.31 total of June.

Second highest bill fluctuation of the year was the $59,048.15 increase recorded between May and June; third was the $26,137.78 decrease between June and July.

Asst. City Manager W. L. Walden said the electricity bill from the Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA), which caused the city to up its monthly fuel adjustment charge from 75 to 94 percent, accounted in large measure for the higher total bill.

"THAT ELECTRICITY BILL was $50,000 higher than the month before," said Walden. "That tends to kick it on up there a little bit."

LCRA once again sent the city's biggest bill, a $176,765.95 tab for 6,794,400 kilowatt hours (kwh) of electricity used. Of that amount, $63,907.27 was the total flat rate bill for the electricity and $112,858.68 was paid for fuel adjustment, the cost of purchasing fuel to generate electricity.

Last month the city paid LCRA $124,959.75 for 5,271,500 kwh. That bill included $51,888.99 for the flat rate charge, and $73,070.76 for fuel adjustment.

SO FAR this year, the city has paid $1,238,976.30 for goods and services, an average of $154,872.03 per month. The money has been paid to 787 billers, an average of $1,574.31 per bill. The city is averaging 98 bills per month.

Monthly bill totals have been:
• August — $231,217.19
• July — $153,429.53

• June — $179,567.31
• May — $120,519.16
• April — $134,440.05

• March — $132,642.81
• February — $143,757.72
• January — $143,392.69

Several people are charged with a conspiracy to murder Senator Kennedy in Springfield, Mass. One character was said to be offering $30,000 for a hit man: "$5,000 down and $25,000 when you do the job."

The government says making pennies has become a losing business, and the darn things just aren't worth the trouble, which is also something a lot of people are saying about the government these days. Anyway, a study is recommending that the U.S. mint eliminate the one cent piece by 1980. Perhaps replacing them with the two dollar bill, eh?

It will be easier to find the City Hall in Cedar Park after a planned sign has been raised. Up to now the best direction has been, "across from the liquor store." The city council voted Sept. 7 to purchase an identification sign for the building. The Leander school district was told Tuesday that hopes for federal grants to pay for a water treatment plant are fading fast. The plant, needed to serve the school system, will cost in the neighborhood of $130,000.

W-BCO elects Jarrell chair

New officers for the Williamson-Burnet County Opportunities, Inc. Board of Directors were elected when the board met in Georgetown Monday night.

Elected board chairman was Zona Gail Thompson, who has represented the Williamson County Teachers' Association as board member of the local Community Action Agency since November 13, 1972.

Miss Thompson teaches seventh and eighth grade reading and Texas history, as well as high school speech and drama, at Jarrell.

All shots will be given with needle and syringe rather than the needle guns which may be used in some areas of the nation.

"We can't wait for the needle guns — that would cause a six-to-eight-week delay," Myers said. "That's just too late. We can't afford to wait that long."

He also explained that the needle guns are helpful only when a large, continuous flow of persons are receiving the immunization.

"If there's any delay or lag in the people coming in it's not effective. If the vaccine dries in the tiny openings of the needle gun it clogs up. You have to keep using it to keep it open."

Although the serum must be refrigerated, the health officer reported keeping it cool during all-day inoculation sessions will be no problem.

"We'll be furnished little plastic picnic ice boxes by the state. But you can get 10,000 doses in a cubic foot of volume — so it's not that much trouble to refrigerate."

He also presented a study showing Georgetown's commercial electrical rates higher than those of other Central Texas cities of comparable size served by the Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA).

COUNCILMAN HARRY GOLD asserted that Safeway had gotten a bargain on its original lease of land for its Georgetown store, cited the city's low property tax rate, and said high operating costs might be attributed to insufficient sales.

He and other councilmen opposed the request for re-instatement of the large commercial rate, but agreed to study the matter further.

consider salary for a secretary." The system would require one person to act as an operator, receiving and channeling all incoming calls.

Orr countered the objection by saying that a secretary already handling a "not unusually light" load could work the switchboard.

"I think we need to take that into study before we make any decision," decided Commissioner Bob Rozacky, and the others concurred.

A $932.62 check will be sent to the Capital Area Planning Council as a result of other action taken Monday during the court session. The money is in semi-annual payment of the county's dues to the organization.

Also renewed was the county's contract to supply space at the Taylor county office building for the Taylor Mental Health-Mental Retardation office.

Making the motion, Taylor Commissioner W. F. Schlickeisen stipulated that renewal would day afternoon to save all these people from coming in from outlying communities. Then we'll do the same thing the second weekend and this will probably take care of the whole county.

"The reason I want to give it in two weeks is that the earlier they get it the better off they are. It takes two weeks to develop some protection after the vaccine is given."

The early part of November is considered to be the starting of the flu season. If we don't get people vaccinated prior to that time there's not as much point to it," said the health director, who also serves in that capacity for Williamson's northern neighbor, Bell County.

VOLUNTEERS will help with traffic flow and questions while area doctors will be present in case of emergency. Forms explaining the purpose of the inoculations will be signed by everyone receiving shots, and are available in both Spanish and English.

"I am sure we will probably have to have some bilingual volunteers because of the form you have to sign," said Donna Barksdale of Georgetown, who is coordinating volunteer efforts for the immunization program.

Although Mrs. Barksdale said she has received commitments from two or three Georgetown clubs, she is looking for volunteers to help in Taylor, Round Rock and Leander.

City Attorney Joe B. McMaster is scheduled to report to the Council on legal questions concerning proposed construction of duplexes on Parker Lane, northwest of the city, by M and W Enterprises.

THE MOVE is being opposed by a group of area residents, who presented a protest petition with 19 signatures to the last meeting of the Georgetown Planning and Zoning Commission.

Representatives for developers of the Tonkowan subdivision, a 51-acre tract to be developed as 2-acre residential tracts northeast of Georgetown Municipal Airport, will also present a final plat for the subdivision to the Council.

be contingent upon the contract being identical to the previous year's agreement.

Agreeing with a letter from directors of the Texas County and District Retirement Systems, the court unanimously passed a resolution opposing nationwide federal control over state and local government retirement plans.

"I THINK they're trying to bail out Social Security," smiled Rozacky as commissioners discussed the proposed Public Employee's Retirement Security Act.

"I think we should oppose it — very much so," agreed Schlickeisen.

A resolution passed by the Retirement Systems board contended, "The basic but erroneous premise on which such legislation is proposed is that many public plans are inadequately administered and funded, and that these assumed defects justify federal intervention and regulation of all such public systems."

Highway patrol investigates county mishaps

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 55 accidents on rural highways in Williamson County during the month of August, according to Sergeant Fred Hurst, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These 55 accidents resulted in one death and 28 injuries for the month of August.

These figures result in a total of 433 accidents with 16 death and 241 injured in Williamson County during 1976.
